Howlett's word law with Chicago cops

So you think you're going to get away with putting on those new 1977 license plates this month even though Mike Howlett said again Wednesday you can't until Dec. 1.

If you plan on driving in Chicago, think again.

Chicago police say they will enforce the directive issued last week by the secretary of state prohibiting the display of new license plates until Dec. 1.

Most local police departments and the Des Plaines branch of the Illinois State Police say they will not ticket motorists who display the plates now because Howlett's directive was issued late.

Howlett says the official display date is printed on every envelope containing the 1977 plates, so motorists should know that the Dec. 1 date has been set again this year.

Restricts 'religious' activities

Dist. 21 adopts new holiday policy

The Dist. 21 Board of Education Thursday adopted a new holiday activities policy after several parents asked for an end to "petty bickering" and a demonstration of "peace" and "goodwill" in the Christmas season.

The board unanimously approved a policy which requires cultural and historical reasons for any holiday activity that has a religious nature.

The district serves Wheeling and parts of Buffalo Grove, Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect.

NEARLY 40 PARENTS attended Thursday's meeting. The question of how to celebrate Christmas in Dist. 21 schools has generated discussion in several parent-teacher organizations on whether holiday activities, programs and decorations should have a religious content.

The policy adopted says that any activity which includes religious subject matter must be used in the teaching of a secular subject.

Mary Potempa, 2918 N. Kennicott, Arlington Heights, president of the Poe School PTA, said she is satisfied with the new policy. Mrs. Potempa asked if "we as parents realize what kind of an example we are showing our children by a lot of petty bickering?"

ANOTHER PARENT from Poe School, Joe Boyko, 215 Tanglewood, Arlington Heights, said he is "very pleased with the holiday program at Poe School which celebrates Christmas, and Hanukkah."

"No one religious group should govern any other religious group," Boyko said. "I feel the singing of a Christmas song will not convert a child to another religion."

One parent, however, objected to the new policy, saying that "We're making a mockery" out of Christmas. "We all have a heritage," said Janet Gundlach, of Arlington Heights. "If we take away the holiday songs, next we'll have to take away the Christmas tree, the cards and next the flag."

One woman attending Thursday's meeting, who asked not to be identified, said, "I don't like small power groups trying to pressure our school board into doing things that are not in the majority." The woman said the group she referred to are "people who belong to NOW (National Organization of Women)."

BOARD PRES. Susan Rose, said the policy intent is not to promote a religion, but also not to inhibit a religion.

Mrs. Rose said Dist. 21 attorneys advised that "sacred songs which would so permeate an activity with religiousity should be avoided."

Several board members said they favored the policy, but they are concerned if it will be followed. Mrs. Rose said the decision on which holiday songs will be used will be made by the individual school principal and teacher. Any songs which are in question will be sent to Supt. Kenneth Gill, she said.

Board Member Elaine Bond asked that a committee made up of parents of different faiths be established in each school to meet with teachers to determine what the school holiday program will be.

The board will deal with the question of implementing the policy and establishing parent committees at a later meeting, Mrs. Rose said.

Car used to transport body found

Police have found the car they believe was used to transport the body of a slain 19-year-old Chicago woman to Arlington Heights, police reported Thursday.

Police said a citizen Wednesday night reported the car, owned by Marcella T. McGee, 11131 S. Union St., abandoned in a parking lot on Chicago's South Side.

Miss McGee's body was found Saturday morning in the parking lot of Park School, 306 W. Park St., Arlington Heights. Miss McGee apparently was shot in the head by a small-caliber handgun earlier that morning, and her body dumped in the village.

Police have said they believe Miss McGee's killers kept the dead manicurist's car. Police had put out a nationwide alert for the missing, 1975 compact auto.

MISS McGEE LIVED with her parents, police said. Arlington Heights detectives were visiting her parents shortly before 7 p.m. Wednesday when they received a telephone call from a person who told them he had found their daughter's car, police said.

Police said the citizen told detectives he had found Miss McGee's purse in the car, and had dialed Miss McGee's home telephone number which he had found in the purse.

Arlington Heights police, who are investigating Miss McGee's murder, declined to release the name of the citizen or where the car was found.

The car was towed to Arlington Heights Thursday afternoon, where evidence technicians found partial fingerprints, police said. The fingerprints were sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation crime laboratory in Washington, D.C., and the Illinois State Crime Laboratory in Springfield, police said.

Police received autopsy results Thursday which showed Miss McGee died from a .22 caliber bullet wound to the head. More results are expected as the investigation continues.

Man injured when car hits light pole

A 27-year-old Barrington man suffered minor injuries when his car struck a light pole in the parking lot of Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights police reported Wednesday.

Police said Alan W. Dawson, 206 George, lost control of the car he was driving on a private drive at the hospital and struck a light pole at 5:17 p.m. Tuesday.

Dawson was treated for arm and head injuries at the hospital and released. Police did not issue any tickets.

33 jump ship in storm; freighter begins rescue

HONOLULU (UPI) — A 33-man crew abandoned a lumber ship in the stormy Pacific Thursday and another freighter began rescuing survivors a few hours later.

The Coast Guard in San Francisco said the seas were 20 feet and winds 35 to 40 knots when the sailors left the Carnelian-1 midway between Hawaii and the Aleutian Islands.

The 472-foot freighter Hunter arrived later and began pulling crewmen, hanging desperately to logs, aboard. A Coast Guard rescue plane reported that some men were sighted on a life raft.

The fate of the 486-foot Carnelian-1 was not known. Radio reports from the stricken vessel said it was abandoned when it was about to sink about 1,400 miles northwest of Honolulu.

The Carnelian-1 also carried two big lifeboats, but these were not sighted by the planes.

THE HUNTER, also carrying lumber, also was reported having trouble because its logs were shifting dangerously in the storm.

The Carnelain-1, three hours before it was abandoned, radioed that the storm had swept the logs from its decks. One hold and the engine room, the skipper said, were flooded.

The radioman said in his last message that he was leaving his post to board a lifeboat.

There were three other freighters in the area. They were identified as the 555-foot Russian freighter Khudozhnik Saryan, the 540-foot Norwegian merchantman Jalanta and the 615-foot Japanese freighter Shunyo Maru.

Modern hobo heads West to sell his poetry

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Stan Lee Iverson has gone wherever the road has taken him the past eight years, drifting through small towns across the country and recording the world he has seen in simple lines of poetry.

At 32, he is a modern-day hobo with whiskers and soiled blue jeans and has traded train boxcars for hitchin' along the highway.

He's made his bed on the forest floor, found nourishment in soup lines, worked weeks at a time in dirty factories and tobacco fields and learned to understand the land while spending time in communes.

HIS IMPRESSIONS of the miles of people and places he has left behind are scribbled on scrap paper and stuffed into a carpetbag pouch.

They are the most precious of the few items he owns because they may bring him a more secure future one day, he says.

Even a hobo gets tired of finding only a dime in his torn pocket and not having even a pen for writing down his feelings on paper, said Iverson, who left a truck driver's life in 1969 in Rockford "to see the world and find out what life is all about."

"I don't look for pity or help from no one. This is the life I've chosen for myself and I'm not sorry," he said.

The world is unkind to an aging hobo, especially one who spent nearly three years in an Illinois prison for a teen-age burglary conviction, he said.

But his aimless travels have suddenly taken on meaning, and with the spirit of a fortune hunter and the ambitions of a youth, Iverson is heading west to Hollywood.

In the capital of glitter and entertainment, he plans to preview his writings on "The Gong Show," a weekday morning television spot for amateur talent that offers cash prizes and exposure.

Iverson began his trip to California this week, stopping in Arlington Heights long enough to visit friends and spin a few tales.

"One time I hitched a ride with a truck driver 40 miles outside of Nashville. He disagreed with something I said, pulled a gun on me and forced me out of his truck on a dark night in the middle of nowhere," he said.

"Another time I met two yacht merchants in a bar in International Falls, Minn. I spent three weeks on this guy's boat as a crew member before we sunk offshore," Iverson said.

He's walked up to seven miles before getting a ride from a passing motorist and has gone up to three days without food.

Governor stays Gilmore execution, asks review

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Utah Gov. Calvin Rampton Thursday stayed the execution of Gary Gilmore, who had told the state supreme court he should die "like a man" before a firing squad Monday morning.

Rampton said he wanted the State Board of Pardons to decide whether the admitted-killer deserved the death penalty. The board meets Wednesday.

Before the governor acted, the 35-year-old Gilmore had said he was relieved by the court's refusal to delay the execution and wanted a six-pack of beer as his last meal, his lawyer said.

THE GOVERNOR acted four days before Gilmore was scheduled to die before the firing squad at Utah State Prison for the slaying of a Provo motel clerk during a $400 robbery.

The stay halted what would have been the first execution in the United States since 1967 and the first in Utah since 1960.

Gilmore, an Oregan parolee who admits killing motel clerk Bennie Bushnell, 25, last summer, was described as "angered and disappointed" by the stay.

The condemned man personally persuaded the Utah Supreme Court Wednesday to let him accept the death penalty "with dignity, like a man" at 8 a.m. Monday.

BUT RAMPTON decided to halt the execution. His stay remains in effect until next Wednesday's regular meeting of the pardons board at the prison.

The board will hold a public hearing on Gilmore's case and decide whether to grant a further delay, commute the sentence to life imprisonment or let the execution occur at a new date to be set by the sentencing judge.

Both Atty. Gen.-elect Robert Hansen and Dennis Boaz, Gilmore's lawyer, said they would urge Pardons Board Chairman George Latimer to move up the time of the meeting so the convict could still die Monday morning.

But Latimer, a former Utah Supreme Court justice and a defense attorney for Lt. William Calley in the My Lai massacre case, said the meeting could not be held any earlier under state law.

No death penalty in Illinois since 1975

The death penalty is on the books in 35 states, but not in Illinois.

The Illinois Supreme Court ruled the state's death penalty law unconstitutional in 1975 and in so doing spared the lives of four men who had been sentenced to death under the 1973 law.

The last execution in Illinois took place Aug. 24, 1962, in Cook County jail.

The absence of a "death row" in Illinois prisons today is not a guarantee, however, that capital punishment could not be reenacted by the state legislature.

State Rep. George Sangmeister, D-Mokena, among others, has sponsored capital punishment measures. Renewed calls for the death penalty also are expected in Springfield when the General Assembly reconvenes later this month.

ILLINOIS' CAPITAL punishment law was struck down in 1975 largely on procedural grounds and some believe a constitutional state law could be drafted with relative ease.

The Illinois Supreme Court said a provision of the 1973 law that set up a special three-judge panel to impose death sentences interfered with the constitutional authority of the trial court judge in capital cases.

The U.S. Supreme Court, in a historic decision last July, ruled state death penalty laws could be constitutional if they included strict guidelines for a judge and jury to exercise mercy in murder cases.

Police find car of murder victim

Police have found the car they believe was used to transport the body of a slain 19-year-old Chicago woman to Arlington Heights. Arlington Heights investigators Thursday said a citizen found the car, owned by slain Marcella T. McGee, 11131 S. Union St., abandoned in a parking lot on Chicago's South Side at 3 p.m. Wednesday. Evidence technicians reportedly have found partial fingerprints in the auto, which police believe was used to transport Miss McGee's body to the parking lot of Park School, 306 W. Park St., Arlington Heights, where a janitor found it Saturday morning. Miss McGee had been shot in the head with a small-caliber handgun.

Three injured in auto crash

Three Hanover Park residents suffered injuries Thursday when three cars crashed in rush-hour traffic near Schaumburg, police reported. Injured were driver James Hardt, 17, and his passengers, David Hardt, 15, and Allen Jernstad, 17. A car driven by James Hardt reportedly was stopped in an eastbound lane of Irving Park Road near Rodenburg Road at 5:10 p.m. Thursday when struck from behind by a car driven by Thomas Smith, 34, of Hanover Park. Hardt's car was pushed into on-coming traffic, where it was struck by a car driven by Harry Hanson, 60, of 1467 Fairlane Dr., Schaumburg, police said. The Hardts were treated and released at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village. Jerstad was admitted for treatment of multiple fractures of his lower jaw. Smith was ticketed for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

Snow causes two car mishaps

Two Northwest suburban residents suffered minor head injuries early Thursday morning when cars they were riding in crashed on snow-sliced roads in Arlington Heights police reported. Police said Sharon Hart, 19, of 1115 Boxwood, Mount Prospect, and Marguerite H. Zemke, 18, of 1205 W. Palatine Rd., Arlington Heights, were injured in two unrelated accidents shortly after midnight Thursday. Ms. Hart was hurt when a car she was a passenger in spun out of control into another auto on Central Road, and Ms. Zemke was injured when she swerved to avoid another auto on Palatine Road, lost control, jumped a curb, struck a pole and dived into a ditch. The injured were rushed to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where they were treated and released.

'Exorcized' boy's body found rotted

YAKIMA, Wash. (UPI) — The decomposed body of a 3-year-old boy who was beaten repeatedly in rites of exorcism was found in a fly-infested room that was sealed with tape to keep the stench from escaping, a jury was told Thursday.

Yakima County Sheriff's Sgt. Robert Langdale testified he had to wear a gas mask when he entered the room to examine the body of David Weilbacher.

The body, clad in jockey shorts and a T-shirt, was found lying on a small cot and covered with a blanket and sheet. The room was thick with gnats and large flies.

FIVE MEMBERS OF the group, which believed the boy was possessed by the devil, included the boy's mother. They are being tried on first degree manslaughter and second degree assault charges in the death.

The defense claims the boy died after he was thrown across the room by his mother.

David's body was found Sept. 19 after one of the defendants called the sheriff's office. Officials said the boy had been dead about two months and his body had been placed in the room in the apparent belief he would be reincarnated.

Charged in the death are the boy's mother, Debra Weilbacher, 20; the sect's leader, Edward Leon Cunningham, 51; his wife, Velma, 45; their daughter Carolyn, 27, and Lorraine Edwards, 20.

Brezhnev called a 'liar' as China attacks Kremlin

HONG KONG (UPI) — China has attacked Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev by name, calling him a liar, in a verbal attack on the Kremlin leadership signaling that there has been no thaw in Sino-Soviet relations.

The unusual personal criticism of Brezhnev followed reports from diplomats in Moscow last week who were quoted as saying they saw faint signs that China might be making a positive response to Soviet overtures for better relations.

A high level Chinese official, however, told a group of French journalists only days ago, "Some of our foreign friends now believe that the Soviet Union is holding out an olive branch to China. This is no olive branch. It is a poison arrow."

A commentary published by the official New China News Agency calling Brezhnev a liar and Soviet leaders "the new tsars" appeared to confirm that the 20-year-old dispute between China and the Soviet Union will continue.

NCNA said the Soviet Union was attempting " to dominate Africa by force of arms.

As an example, NCNA cited the Soviet decision to supply arms to Cuban "mercenaries" who fought in the Angolan civil war.

"The Soviet revisionists poured into Angola large quantities of arms and thousands upon thousands of Soviet 'military advisers' and mercenaries," it said.

"This newly independent country was thus plunged into a bloodbath under the gunfire of the new tsars, and over 100,000 Angolan people were killed."

The black guerrilla faction backed by Cubans and Soviet weapons won the civil war and established a government that has maintained close ties with Moscow.

"Brezhnev is also lying when he said that 'we seek there no gain for ourselves,' " the Chinese news agency said. "The enslavement and plunder of the Angolan people by the new tsars are facts known to all.

On Sunday, China's National People's Congress sent a message to Moscow offering "warm congratulations" to the Soviet people on the annniversary of the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution. Moscow analysts suggested this might indicate a thaw in Sino-Soviet relations.

Carter ends vacation, wants work

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — President-elect Jimmy Carter, "tired of vacation and ready to go to work," ended a six-day stay on the Georgia coast Thursday and returned to Plains.

There appeared to be plenty for him to do. In addition to the myriad chores involved in taking over the presidency, Carter also faces a racial integration showdown within his church.

The president-elect plans to attend a business meeting of the Plains Baptist Church Sunday at which the congregation will decide whether to fire its pastor, the Rev. Bruce Edwards, who wants to scrap an old church policy and open worship services to blacks. Carter is expected to back Edwards.

Carter's aides had little to say Friday concerning a suggestion by fellow Democrat, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger be kept on in the Carter administration to work on Middle East problems.

Young and old waited to get Dick Clark's autograph.

A 'symbol of America', Dick Clark greets 1,000

by JOHN LAMPINEN

The middle-aged woman leans over the stacks of books and peers at Dick Clark.

His appearance hasn't changed much since ABC first picked up "American Bandstand" in 1957. His hair sports a well controlled "dry look" now, but the tanned face is still youthful, virtually unmarred by cracks and wrinkles.

Beatle music is playing loudly throughout the Schaumburg Room at Woodfield Shopping Center. Clark spots the photographers and hugs a teen-aged girl long enough for the shutters to open and close.

The hug is habit-forming, and more girls demand one as they come through the line.

The woman glances back to her daughters. Since Thursday was Veteran's Day and there was no school, she had brought her children to Woodfield for some shopping.

Then, they had heard over the radio that Clark would be autographing his book, "Rock, Roll and Remember" at Walden Book Store in Woodfield, Hildegard Mozer of Hoffman Estates recalls.

"I watched Dick Clark for such a long time," she says through a slight accent. "I couldn't let the chance go by of seeing him in person."

So they trekked down to the bookstore only to find a sign announcing that Clark was writing autographs in the Schaumburg Room at the opposite end of the mall. They marched the length of the mall to get in line.

Ed Schutte stands next to a security guard near the exit and watches the line in amazement.

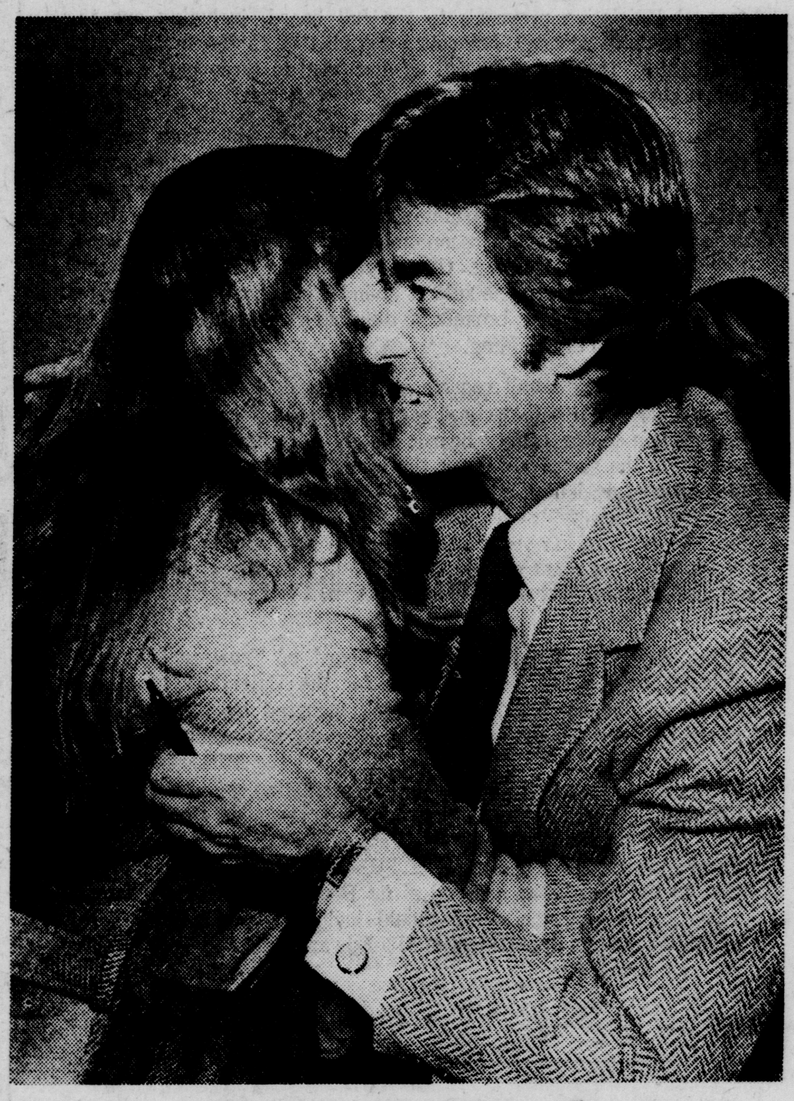
He shakes his head. Usually, autograph parties are made up of an author sitting in front of stacks of books signing his name for a handful of people.

William Safire, former speech writer for Richard Nixon, came to the book store to promote "Before the Fall" recently and no one showed up, the thin, bearded manager of Walden's recalls.

"Autograph parties in general don't do this well," Schutte says, nodding toward the line. "He appeals to all age groups. Twenty years ago, we probably would have had a bigger crowd."

The line moves, and Mrs. Mozer and her children follow it, her head bobbing in and out to catch glimpses of Clark.

She immigrated to the United States from Germany in 1955, she says, and she doesn't remember a time when Dick Clark wasn't on television doing his thing.



A hug from the star himself.

It's almost as though he's a symbol of what America is.

"He is a very-easy-to-go-with American person," she says. "He has a very lovely TV personality. I wish everybody could be like him."

The line moves again, and Donna Vilser, 25, of Elk Grove Village presents the celebrity with her newly purchased book.

What's the name? Clark says. She tells him who the book is for, and asks "How do you get on '$20,000 Pyramid?' "

"You have to call to find out when the tapings are," Clark tells her. "Then, you come down and hope to be selected. About eight of every 100 are."

"When we were little kids, we used to watch him," Mrs. Vilser says. In fact, she still does. Her 3-year-old daughter, Julie, isn't old enough to know what "Bandstand" is about, but she still watches.

"She dances with him though," Mrs. Vilser says. "She gets upon the table and tries to dance."

Mrs. Mozer's wait among the teenagers nears an end.

She hands Clark an advertising flier and asks fo rthe appropriate autograph. She touches him and says a few words.

Then she moves to the side as Clark autographs pieces of paper for Sue, 18; Ursula, 13; and Cori, 11.

They still watch "American Bandstand." Mrs. Mozer doesn't usually have time on Saturdays.

But she does watch "$20,000 Pyramid" with regularity.

"I just wish I would be one of the lucky winners there," she says.

Within moments, all the autographs are personalized and signed. Mrs. Mozer and her children walk toward the exit in a group.

Clark turns to another of the 1,000 fans.

"What's the name?" he asks.

The tune playing loudly has switched to "Peggy Sue."

GOP's Smith to resign?

• Republican National Chairwoman Mary Louise Smith intends to resign her post, Iowa GOP sources said Thursday. Contacted at her home, Mrs. Smith denied the report and said she has made no such decision. She said any decision of that type would not be leaked to the public through sources. GOP officials, however, told United Press International the announcement was "imminent" and would be made "reluctantly." Mrs. Smith has served as natinal committeewoman from Iowa since 1964 and as national chairwoman for more than two years.

• Robert Y. Young is a motorcycle enthusiast, an attorney and an ex-convict. On Jan. 3 he will be sworn in a Justice Court Judge in Auburn, Calif. Young, 36, defeated a "law and order" candidate in the general election by 335 votes out of 10,000 cast. He made no secret of his criminal record and it was never a major campaign issue.

• Alexander Calder, whose deftly balanced, hanging sculpture known as "mobiles" captured the fancy of America and at the same time made him famous around the world, died of a heart attack Thursday in New York at the age of 78. The Philadelphia-born artist was in New York from his home in Sache, France for the opening of an exhibition of 200 of his works at the Whitney Museum of Art.

• Elizabeth Taylor said Thursday she will continue acting but give top priority to her upcoming marriage to former Navy Sec. John W. Warner — even though he's not sure he can support her. Miss Taylor made the remarks at a news conference at Virginia Military Institute where her fiance was giving a Founder's Day address. She said she and Warner are waiting for their mothers — both in their 80s, to set the date for the marraige. It will be her seventh and his second marriage.

• Sir Winston Churchill was a "really incredibly cozy grandfather," Charlotte Hambro said while visiting the Churchill Memorial on the Westminster College Campus in Fulton, Mo. Wednesday. She was accompanied to the memorial by Grace Hamlin, the former British wartime premier's personal secretary for 33 years. "Even though I stood in awe of him, he was a really incredible cozy grandfather," Mrs. Hambro said.

• Totie Fields, whose quick wit has charmed, will make her return to show business and public life on The Merv Griffin Show," Friday, November 19 at 9 p.m. on Channel 32. She will make her first television appearance since complications following surgery required the amputation of a leg earier this year. Joining Merv and Totie in the special "Welcome Back" show will be fellow entertainers and close personal friends Shecky Greene and Bert Convy, both surprise guests gathering for her return.

• James E. Groppi, the former Catholic priest known nationally for a series of civil rights marches in the 1960s, will become a full-time bus driver in Milwaukee next week. Groppi, 45, was excommunicated after he married in April. He has been training for the bus job with the Milwaukee County Transit System the past three weeks. "Right now, the bus will be my church and the people who board it my parishioners," he said. "I still consider myself first and always a Catholic priest, regardless of what others think of me. Once ordained, you're ordained forever."

Once, while on a ship to Germany, he kept in shape by walking the deck — backward of course.

Bread supply the rule, not exception

by BILL HILL

"WE HAVE BREAD."

The large hand-drawn letters filled mst of the window Thursday at the Cake Box, 15 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights. It was a welcome sign for many.

Local bakeries throughout the Northwest suburbs came in handy as residents stocked up on bread.

Bread shortages, however, were the exception in local grocery stores rather than the rule Thursday on the second day of the bakery truck drivers strike, which has shut down the five Chicago companies which produce about 80 per cent of the bread consumed in the metropolitan area.

In ares where they were needed, small bakeries were ready to come to the rescue.

Joan DeWaele of Haas's Bakery, 1180 Lee St., Des Plaines, reported the shop was much busier than usual.

Sales were "about average" at the Cumberland Bakery, 36 E. Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines, but extra bread was made, Marie Csarman said.

"No one has panicked yet because they can still get bread at the grocery stores," she said.

Business was slightly higher Thursday at the Palatine Pastry Shop, 37 W. Slade St., owner Joe Seidl reported.

Seidl increased his bread production by 50 per cent — about 60 loaves — because of early morning sales.

The strike by 1,200 bakery truck drivers of Local 734, Chicago Bakery Drivers Union, began at midnight Tuesday. Negotiations resumed Thursday but no reports of progress were announced.

The walkout is the union's first since a 15-day strike in 1967. The union members currently make a base pay of $199.50 per week plus commissions.

The five bakeries affected by the strike are ITT Continental Baking Co., which makes Wonder bread and Hostess cakes; Interstate Brands Corp., maker of Butternut bread and Dolly Madison cakes; Ward Foods Inc., which bakes Butter Maid bread; New Process Baking Co., producer of Holsum bread; and Campbell-Targett Co., maker of Rainbow bread.

THE DOORS to Springfield fire stations are closed as 158 firefighters went on strike in a bid to force the city council to negotiate a contract with them. The striking firefighters voted Thursday night to defy a back-to-work court order and remain on the picket lines where they were joined by teachers declaring support for the walkout.

Stricter teacher certification urged

An Illinois Board of Education committee Thursday presented several legislative proposals to the full board, including one to make it more difficult for college graduates to obtain teaching certificates. The proposals will be discussed at three public hearings across the state.

The committee proposed that besides usual requirements for getting a teacher's certificate — having a bachelor's degree and completing a minimum number of semester hours — candidates also undergo specialized training approved by the state school superintendent and get a recommendation from the school where they received the training. Other proosals include one to allow school districts to turn the sale of abandoned school buildings over to licensed real estate brokers if the district does not receive an adequate bid on the building.

Other proposals woull require school boards to pay the cost of special elections to fill school board vacancies instead of passing the cost on to the county board; set up a computer network for schools in the state, and lower the minimum age for taking a test to get the equivalent of a high school diploma from age 19 to 18.

School to assume festival debts?

The Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees Thursday delayed final action on a request for the University to absorb $70,000 of the some $175,000 red ink incurred by the 1976 Mississippi River Festival on SIU's Edwardsville campus. Board chairman Ivan A. Elliot Jr. said he hoped the Mississippi River Festival, a summertime cultural presentation of musical and dance artists and crafts begun eight years ago on the Edwardsville campus, could continue. It is staged by the Mississippi River Festival with the cooperation of SIU-Edwardsville. A further report to the board was ordered at its Dec. 9 meeting at Edwardsville. Elliott said the study should include whether the festival should be made a department of SIU-Edwardsville.

Nurse home chiefs fined $700,000

A federal judge Thursday imposed $700,000 in fines on four suburban nursing home operators who pleaded guilty to charges of taking kickbacks in a Medicaid fraud scheme. U.S. District Court Judge Frank J. McGarr also put the men on two-year probation and ordered three of them to spend the first 90 days of the sentence in jail. All four operators pleaded guilty to 56 counts of mail fraud and receiving kickbacks from pharmacies and drug suppliers for referring Medicaid patients to them. The four own interests in the Northbrook Nursing Home, Northbrook; Bryn Mawr House in Chicago, Eden View Convalescent and Geriatric Center, Northbrook; All Seasons Nursing Home, Waukegan, and Evergreen Gardens Nursing Home, Evergreen Park.

Daley surfaces, declines statement

Mayor Richard J. Daley Thursday made his first public appearance in Chicago since the Nov. 2 general election, but declined to comment on the losses suffered at the polls by his Democratic organization. Daley, questioned by reporters before and after a Veterans Day speech at the Civic Center, said the losing Democratic candidates "didn't get enough votes." Asked if he expects fellow party members to challenge his leadership in the Cook County Democratic Central Committee — his power base — Daley replied, "The leadership is there. I speaks for itself."

Then he turned to several reporters and said, "You're the fellows who want a challenge. Get out and run for office."

Stock Yard Inn to close

The famed Stock Yard Inn in Chicago will serve its last meal Sunday after 65 years of playing host to cowboys and Presidents. The once elegant, Tudor-style hotel and inn stood adjacent to International Amphitheatre and former Chicago stock yards. Nick Diaz, co-owner of the inn said Presidents Roosevelt, Coolidge, Hoover and Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy were once guests. Before the inn closes Sunday and is torn down next month, 600 livestock men will attend a farewell banquet at the inn.

We take pride in announcing the opening of the most luxurious nursing center in the northern and northwest suburbs.

CBers say they're not vigilantes

by MARSHA S. BOSLEY

Crime prevention in the Northwest suburbs once was a job solely for local police departments.

In two communities, however, police are assisted by special volunteer citizen patrols which comb the streets looking for and reporting crime and other suspicious activities via their Citizens' Band radios to patrolmen.

Members of the Arlington Heights Neighborhood Watch Program and Mount Prospect's Special Teams On Patrol Program say they joined their group strictly as concerned citizens. They deny being "hot shot" CB radio fanatics or "vigilantes." They say they are not out to play cops and robbers. They insist they are not trying to take law enforcement into their own hands.

THE RULES ARE rigid. Potential patrol members are carefully screened. And participants, for the most part, feel anonymity is a must.

In Mount Prospect, STOP members conceal their identities because, they admit, they are police informants of sorts. So they refer to themselves by code numbers.

The director of STOP, Unit 1, said, "Our duties are to keep in view but out of sight. It's really a lot of work, but I enjoy it. It's a very constructive piece of work that I like. We're good honest citizens looking to help."

VANDALISM, THEFTS, arsons, drugs and burglaries are among criminal activities the 26 STOP members, from ages 21 to 65, are scouting for.

"We figured it's a good cause — a volunteer job. We feel we are protecting Mount Prospect residents," Unit 16 said.

Unit 16 and Unit 7 are the only father-son STOP team in the village. "I feel every suburb should have a back-up to the police department," Unit 7 said. "The citizens should get more involved so they know what the police go through and have to put up with."

MIKE SALATINO of the Mount Prospect Crime Prevention Bureau said persons frustrated by fantasies of becoming policemen are weeded out among STOP applicants before they are asked to join the group. Participants in STOP range from factory workers to lawyers and business executives.

"Actually I don't live in Mount Prospect," Unit 11 said. "But if we can deter crime in the village, it will also help my (unincorporated Cook County) area."

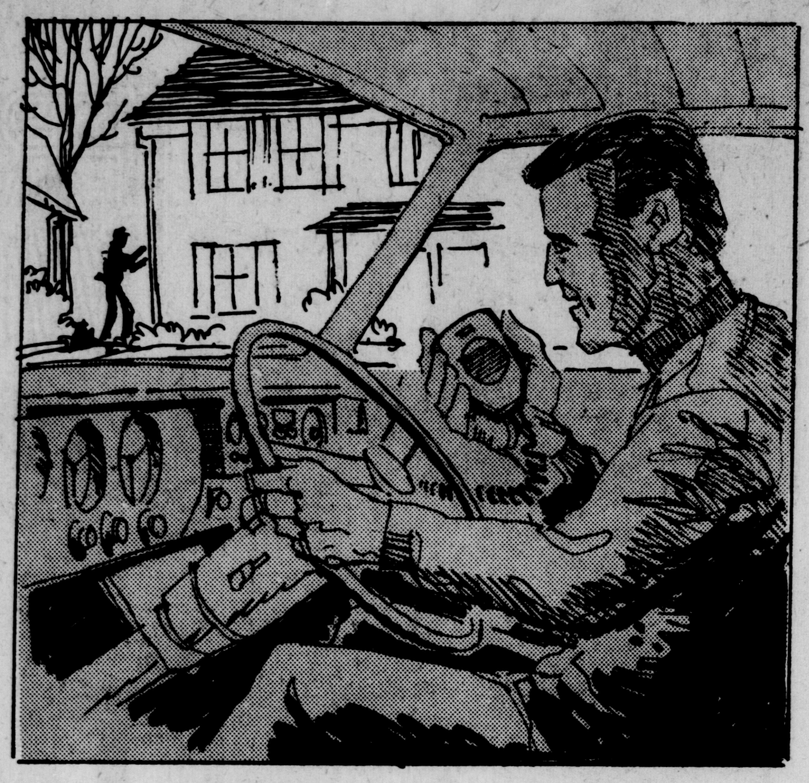
One of STOP's newest members, Unit 12, said the group serves a purpose. 'We're here to help. There's a lot of good that will come from it in the form of reduced crime and everything else that is bad."

Another STOP member said his involvement in the group was prompted by his desire to protect his family.

"I don't ever want any member of my family saying they can't walk on the streets at night," Unit 19 said. "If you want a decent community, you have to put yourself forth to make it so."

IN ARLINGTON Heights, the 80 Neighborhood Watch patrol members also prefer to remain incognito. They shy away from publicity concerning their patrols because they say they do not want potential troublemakers to "know we're out." Residents report criminal activities in Arlington Heights from their homes as well as their cars.

The CB radio patrol concept is being planned in Des Plaines but Ald. Arthur Erbach, 5th, said if the city adopts such a program it will be different from Mount Prospect's.



Erbach and several Des Plaines CBers said they believe the involvement level among Mount Prospect STOP members is too high and too else to that of sworn police officers.

"The CBers are not going to be policemen," Erbach said. "They're going to be aides to the police. We want help but we don't want people out there thinking they're heroes."

SEVERAL DES PLAINES residents said they would join a citizens patrol in the city — which, officials say, could be initiated by February — to help curb vandalism in their community.

"If you've lived here all of your life and have seen some of the things that have gone on you'd want to do something about it," said John Doni, 1520 Mount Prospect Rd. "If I can find some way of helping the police without being one I feel I am helping the community in some way."

Richard Fahlstrom, 2117 Eastview Dr., said it is a practical system to help prevent crime when police are short-handed. "It's more eyes and more ears," he said.

IRS finds hall bottled up on Coke

by JERRY THOMAS

A Volkswagen screeched to a stop in front of Rolling Meadows City Hall Tuesday and, leaving the engine running, two Internal Revenue Service agents dashed into the building.

Where's the Coke machine? they asked.

Most city employes feigned ignorance, but someone must have tipped the revenuers off because they got back into the car and raced over to the public works building. They confronted another city employe.

WHERE'S THE COKE machine? they asked.

I want to talk to my lawyer first, he replied.

They found the vending machine anyway.

"They have since notified me," says City Atty. Donald Rose, "that the Coke machine is a profit-making operation and have demanded that the city report the profits as taxable income.

"Don't laugh," he added. "It's serious."

It seems that the city leased the machine from Coca-Cola about two years ago and installed it in the public works building as a convenience to the workers. The city buys the soft drinks at 24½ cents per can, says Denny York of the building department, and sells it for 25 cents.

It's that half-cent per can that the IRS wants reported as taxable proit.

PUBLIC WORKS SUPT. John Hennessy, however, says the "profit" may be eaten up by operating expenses. "I believe the utility charges more than that to run the machine and the city hardly breaks even," he said.

"We never figured it was going to make money," chuckled Mayor Roland Meyer. "Maybe we should conduct an investigation of our own and put in some more so we can use the profits to retire our water bonds."

One public works employe, who insisted on remaining anonymous, said traffic to the machine has declined drastically since the IRS raid.

"I felt like a smuggler when I asked someone to bring back a can for me," she said.

2 injured in accidents on snow-slicked roads

Two Northwest suburban residents suffered minor injuries early Thursday morning when cars in which they were riding crashed on snow-slicked roads in Arlington Heights, police reported.

Police said Sharon Hart, 19, of 1115 Boxwood, Mount Prospect, suffered head injuries when a car in which she was riding, driven by Amy J. Dooley, 19, of Palos Hills, skidded out of control and hit an auto driven by Judith A. Schimmel, 24, of 4736 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows.

The accident reportedly occurred on westbound Central Road near Pine Avenue at 12:18 a.m. Thursday.

Police said Marguerite H. Zemke, 18, of 1205 W. Palatine Rd., Arlington Heights, suffered head injuries when a car she was driving swerved to avoid another auto and lost control on Palatine Road near Schoenbeck Road at 12:02a.m. Thursday.

Ms. Zemke's auto reportedly bounced off one curb, jumped another, struck a telephone pole and ran into a ditch.

Ms. Hart and Ms. Zemke were transported to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where they were treated and released.

Police ticketed Ms. Dooley for driving too fast for conditions.

AIR POLLUTION ALERT FACTS
For Respiratory Disease Patients

STAY INSIDE WITH WINDOWS CLOSED. The air in your home is less polluted than that outside. Air purifiers can make inside air even cleaner, but those that filter out gases are expensive. Less expensive devices, called electrostatic precipitators, can remove most particles, but they may produce ozone. Ozone is itself a harmful and irritant gas.

REMAIN AS QUIET AS POSSIBLE. Don't clean; don't cook. All activity puts a strain on your heart and lungs, and it stirs up dust.

DON'T SMOKE. Don't stay in a room where others are smoking. Tobacco smoke pollutes the air you breathe.

KEEP COMFORTABLE. (a) In the winters, keep your room air moist with a humidifier or pans of water. (b) In the summer, keep your room cool. If you have an air conditioner, set it to recirculate room air. If you don't have one, or if you cannot control it, use a fan.

DRINK LOTS OF WATER AND FRUIT JUICE. It keeps the mucus in your chest loose and moist, and helps clear your breathing passages. Not all liquids help. Coffee, cola and tea have the opposite effect.

FOLLOW YOUR DOCTOR'S ORDERS. He will have told you what medication to use and how and when to use it, in case of an air pollution alert. Do as he has said. If you feel worse, or if you have any questions about your health, call him.

Attorney to ask release of Hearst

An attorney for Patricia Hearst said Thursday he will ask for her release on bail today on the grounds that the only place she is safe in prison is in solitary confinement and that this constitutes "inhumane" treatment. Attorneys for the newspaper heiress, sentenced to a seven-year term for robbing a bank with the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army which had kidnaped her, will appear before U.S. District Judge William Orrick at today's hearing to argue for a new trial and her release on bail pending appeal of her conviction. U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr., who prosecuted Miss Hearst, has said he would oppose bail, terming her a flight risk.

Sunken plane pulled to surface

The Navy said it has finally managed to get its sunken F14 fighter plane to the surface of the North Atlantic near Scotland — but still does not have the plane firmly in hand. In a progress report on its lengthy efforts to recover the jet from the ocean floor, the Navy said the craft had been raised to the surface about four miles from the entrance to Westray Firth in the Orkney Islands. The plane accidentally swerved off the deck of the carrier USS John F. Kennedy 48 days ago when the throttle stuck during takeoff. But, a little embarrassed by three unsuccessful attempts which saw it sink to the bottom again before it could be pulled from the water, the Navy said today it now plans to tow the plane into the sheltered Firth waters before trying to lift it to the deck of a civilian salvage ship.

Carter, Latin leaders to meet

Two of the most influential Latin American leaders, Venezuela's Carlos Andres Perez and Mexico's Jose Lopez Portillo, may be among the first foreign dignitaries to meet with Jimmy Carter after he becomes president. Lopez Portillo, who succeeds Luis Echeverria Alvarez as president of Mexico Dec. 1, probably will follow the tradition of having U.S.-Mexican summits early in the administrations of the chiefs of state of both countries. Lopez Portillo met with President Ford at the White House in late September and there are unconfirmed reports that he may meet with Carter in Washington early next year.

Rhodesian concessions rapped

Rhodesian Foreign Minister Pieter van der Byl said Thursday in Geneva, Switzerland the white minority regime had accepted U.S. proposals for black majority rule "in good faith" and will not make any further concessions. Angry and bitter, van der Byl said in an interview that Rhodesia had been "sold down the drain" by Britain. "We accepted the proposals made by Sec. of State (Henry) Kissinger in good faith," he said. "We made all our concessions before we came to Geneva for the Rhodesia Conference."

Swine flu clinics open in 8 villages

Northwest suburban residents will line up for swine flu vaccinations today, Saturday and Sunday as clinics for the general public open in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect and Wheeling.

Men and women ages 18 to 60 are eligible for the free shots which will immunize them against a predicted outbreak of swine flu.

These clinics offer vaccinations for the general public. All but one of the previous clinics in the area have been limited to persons who are either chronically ill or over 60.

RESIDENTS WHO ATTEND one of the clinics will be asked to read and sign an informed consent letter which explains the purpose of the shot and the possible side effects.

Persons who are allergic to eggs, who have a fever or who have had another vaccination within the past two weeks will not get a shot.

The vast majority of persons will have no reaction to the shot, which will be given by high-pressure injector guns. A very small number of people will develop a slight fever and may have chills, a headache or feel sick for a day or two, heath officials say.

Coordinators of the village clinics say it will help if persons wear short-sleeved shirts.

THE FOLLOWING is the schedule for swine flu vaccinations in the Northwest suburbs:

• Arlington Heights — Today 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Saturday 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.; and Sunday 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Arlington Park Race Track grandstand, Euclid Avenue and Wilke roads, Gate 1, Wilke Road.

• Buffalo Grove — Saturday and Sunday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Buffalo Grove High School, Arlington Heights and Dundee roads.

• Des Plaines — Today and Saturday, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., Maine West High School, 1755 S. Wolf Road., Des Plaines.

• Elk Grove Village — Saturday and Sunday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Elk Grove High School, 500 W. Arlington Heights Rd.

• Mount Prospect — Saturday and Sunday 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Randhurst Shopping Center, Rand Road and Ill. Rte. 83.

• Palatine — Today, Saturday and Sunday, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., Harper College, Building A, Algonquin and Roselle roads.

• Wheeling-Prospect Heights — Saturday and Sunday, 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Wheeling High School, 900 S. Elmhurst Rd.

• Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates, which sponsored a clinic Wednesday, will continue the clinic today from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at St. Marcelline's Catholic Church, 820 S. Springinsguth Rd. A second clinic will be from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Nov. 20 at Hoffman Estates High School, 1100 Higgins Rd.

There is no residency requirement for flu shots so that persons may attend the clinic that is most convenient for them.

Patrolman cited for rescue effort

Patrolman Charles Pedersen was presented the Outstanding Citizen Award by Arlington Heights Rotarians Thursday for his quick action in saving the lives of three Hoffman Estates men trapped in a vehicle after a collision.

Pedersen pulled the door from a Volkswagen in an effort to free the men after their car collided with a Corvette at Ill. Rtes. 62 and 58. After the Corvette caught fire, Pedersen and others lifted the Volkswagen and carried it away from the fire.

One of the three passengers subsequently died. The other two remain hospitalized.

Water plans competing is concern

Concerns that two Northwest suburban groups seeking Lake Michigan water — DAMP and SHARE + 3 — may be working at cross purposes were voiced Thursday night at a meeting of Northwest suburban officials called to review SHARE + 3's lake water pipeline plan .

Communities in DAMP and SHARE +3 asked for an allocation of lake water. And officials said they must resolve competition between the groups.

The eight communities in SHARE + 3 Thursday night agreed to a Jan. 15 deadline to respond to a proposal that they form a legal partnership to oversee construction of the pipeline at an estimated cost of $42 to $62 million.

THE PLAN, prepared by SHARE + 3's executive committee, calls for each community to contribute to the cost of the pipeline project based on the quantity of water it will use in the year 2000.

Elk Grove Village Mgr. Charles A. Willis, chairman of SHARE + 3 executive committee, said he thinks the communities are receptive to the plan, although he acknowledged the concern about the apparent rivalry between DAMP and SHARE+ 3.

"I think the competition between the two is really superficial," Willis said, predicting that the mutual interests of the suburbs in getting lake water will dissolve the differences between them.

No specific state or federal programs could help the suburbs pay for the lake water pipeline. But Willis said he is hopeful that a plan to borrow the money in low-interest installments from the federal government can be put together.

"FUNDING IS still very vague," he said. "A revolving fund under which we would borrow the money and continually repay it is totally foreign to Washington. They're much more accustomed to a one-way grant."

Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Buffalo Grove, Mount Prospect and Palatine village boards now must decide by Jan. 15 whether a legal partnership will be created to direct the pipeline project.

The outcome of their individual decisions will have considerable impact on the future of a joint Northwest suburbs venture for Lake Michigan water.

The way we see it

Focus on Amy's school

It's called Stevens School, a seven-room schoolhouse in Washington, D.C., built in 1868 as the first school for children of freed slaves. It's the school Amy Carter, the President-elect's 9-year-old daughter, is expected to enroll in next year.

Seldom does a single school in the inner city get much attention unless there is racial strife or teacher strikes or not enough money to go around. But this small school, its pupils and educational system, will be scrutinized as no other public school has been before. We suspect Amy Carter's performance academically and emotionally in her new surrounding will receive equally intense focus of public attention.

Stevens has 215 pupils. About 60 per cent are black, 30 per cent Oriental or Hispanic and 10 per cent white. Children of parents working in foreign embassies make up a large part of the school.

We're anxious to see how Amy and her parents adapt to the girl's new school and her fellow pupils when she is propelled from rural Georgia to the city of Washington, D.C.

We suspect she will experience a touch of cultural shock and that she and her family will have many of the same problems more common folks deal with every day in urban public school systems.

If Jimmy Carter does, indeed, send Amy to Stevens School, he may better understand the real and practical side of urban education.

Atomic gifts need look

A group of 13 U.S. senators on a junket to the Mideast have been barred from visiting Israel's atomic energy facility at Dimona.

The senators have been visiting Israel, Egypt and Iran to check safeguards for promised U.S. nuclear reactors. Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said the United States wants to ensure "adequate safeguards are built into the agreement to prevent diversion of material for non-useful purposes in any country."

The United States would like to give some struggling third-world nations atomic reactors for peaceful purposes to spur their development. But we don't want to give the capacity for waging nuclear warfare to a string of pint-size nations.

Baker and his colleagues were prohibited from visiting the Dimona facility where, reportedly, enough plutonium is stored to build 20 nuclear bombs.

Since Israel already has that capacity and is determined to block the U.S. from monitoring the use of its nuclear gifts, this nation should keep its money at home and help only those nations who need the help and are willing to cooperate.

Farewell, Smokey Bear

The friendly bear with the ranger hat and shovel is immortal, but we should pause for a moment to note the passing of the little bear cub who inspired the symbol.

Smokey Bear, 26, died in his sleep this week at the National Zoo in Washington, D.C., A younger bear who has taken the name still frolicks in the Smokey Bear cage, but the original is gone.

The new Smokey and departed Smokey share a common heritage. Both were rescued from forest fires. Old Smokey's rescue provided a living symbol for the U.S. Forest Service's fire prevention program.

In that role Smokey, and all the cartoon Smokey Bears he spawned, was a resounding success. Thousands of persons over the years have doused their campfires because of the bear's reminder.

Old Smokey will be buried at Smokey Bear Historical State Park in New Mexico. By all reports, his passing was peaceful. He lived to a ripe old age for bears.

We suspect his life was all any bear could ask.

Social service gets funds

Notwithstanding the philosophic reservations some of us may have about the federal revenue sharing program, the Schaumburg Township Board of Auditors heartily agrees with your recent editorial praising the past success of the program in our local communities. However, the board respectfully takes exception to your statement that the intent of the revenue sharing program is to provide local governments with funds for one-time capital improvement projects. We also disagree with the implication of your statement that governments are acting unwisely in allocating these funds for recurring operating or social services because a possible discontinuance of the program in the future might, in your view, force elimination of these services.

Although some local units of government do allocate most or all of their revenue sharing funds to capital projects, in Cook County experience has shown that the 30 suburban townships have seen a greater need for supporting people services than for spending these funds on bricks and mortar.

We believe that the key to the successful administration of the revenue sharing program is flexibility, that is, flexibility on the part of locally elected officials to determine the priority needs of their constituents without needless red tape and bureaucratic rules imposed by Washington. We believe that we are administering this program according to the true intent, and we point to the fact that Congress has not singled out "capital projects" as a category deserving of special priority. Had the Schaumburg Township Board of Auditors four years ago taken the stance you advocate, many service agencies might not have been able to deliver the level of needed services so essential to a growing community. The services offered by Clearbrook Center, Shelter Inc., the Salvation Army, the Schaumburg-Elk Grove Townships Mental Health Center and our own Committee on Youth, to name just a few, need no introduction to the informed citizen.

With the flexibility allowed in the program, a balance must continually be sought in allocting these funds.

Auditor

Careless bicyclists cause near-misses

My husband and I are very distressed over the bike riders in and around Arlington Heights.

We have not only witnessed near-miss clashes between drivers and bikers but have experienced such ourselves . . . And more often than not it is the biker's fault.

The standard "Rules of The Road" have not been observed by these bikers, little or no lighting of bikes and apparel in the dark are used and just plain carelessness seem to be standard biking. Biking is as much a privilege as driving a car, and this must be strongly stressed and taught not only through parental guidance but in the schools and with strict law enforcement.

Parking plan for Prospect depot

The shortage of commuter parking in Mount Prospect is not a new problem.

My wife and I commute daily to Chicago on the Chicago and North Western. Recently, the parking lots on the north side of the tracks are filled as early as 7:15 a.m. There are so few parking spaces in the Lion's Park area that the number of spaces should be quickly increased. When I am able to park in these lots, I see many cars parked with out-of-state licenses. A large number of the cars have other than Mount Prospect village stickers, with a good many having Chicago city stickers. Some have no stickers at all.

I cannot decide whether my suggestion is equitable. However, I propose that the village restrict parking in lots near the depot to village residents only. Also, it is a shame to see the Wille Lumber property unused. I suggest the village negotiate a rental agreement for the use of their parking area. It could be used by anyone wishing to purchase a monthly parking permit, which would allow either residents or non-residents to park there for a reasonable monthly fee. The permit would eliminate the need for the installation of meters. Hopefully the village could realize income from the parking arrangement. Certainly, we could profit by ticketing cars parked without a permit.

There's some good in the news

I take this opportunity to publicly acknowledge the combined efforts of the Mount Prospect S.T.O.P. (Special Teams On Patrol) and the Mount Prospect Civil Defense, in curbing serious criminal acts to property this past Halloween.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 29, 30 and 31, a total of 55 volunteer citizens gave up their personal time and patrolled our village in their personal vehicles, bearing the cost of gasoline and maintenance, assisting our police in deterring offenders and reporting possible crime before it became a reality.

I am proud to be part of both these groups, knowing them personally, and acknowledging the useful efforts which they have displayed many times over. As a citizen of Mount Prospect I feel reassured that private citizens are willing to volunteer their time to assist our village in emergencies, parades, traffic direction and reporting possible criminal acts before they occur. It is gratifying to witness what good citizens will do for their community.

FAA delay helped cause tragedy

by NEA/LONDON ECONOMIST NEWS SERVICE
(A commentary)

At lunchtime on March 3, 1974, a woman's disembodied hand desperately clutching a man's armless hand were the first macabre remnants of humanity that confronted the French police captain who found the crash site of the world's worst air disaster.

A McDonnell Douglas DC-10 of Turkish Airlines had plunged into a wood at Dammartain, near Paris, at 500 miles an hour, snuffing out 346 lives — or maybe 350 or 351: the forensic scientists were never sure.

It was the first total loss of a wide-bodied jet. It was a quite avoidable accident: there were many forewarnings. Something like it could happen again because the lessons about the FAA's divided loyalties have not been heeded by the American authorities.

The reasons for the crash have been painstakingly put together by the London Sunday Times Insight team in a book, "Destination Disaster," published last week. It makes chilling reading.

The immediate cause soon was apparent. A rear cargo door had blown off, part of the floor above it had collapsed as the pressurized air trapped in the cabin had rushed out explosively. This ruptured the control circuits. Six of the dead had been sucked out still in their seats.

There were three important weaknesses with the DC-10:

— All the DC-10s hydraulic piping, with the cables that linked them to the cockpit controls, pass through the cabin floor. Boeing and Lockheed directed some of theirs through other parts of the structure. (None of the three American wide-bodied jets has floors strong enough to withstand explosive decompression.)

— American Airlines, the DC-10's first and, for a time, only customer, wanted electric motors to work the door latches instead of hydraulics as used by the other two and originally chosen by McDonnell Douglas. The electrically-driven latches kept the door shut until the aircraft was flying and the cabin pressurized. Boeing and Lockheed, manufacturers of other wide-bodied jets, use hydraulic closing devices that "creep" open at lower speeds and heights.

Boeing's door-locking design (copied largely by Lockheed) is positive: i.e., if it is not working it alerts the cockpit. The ground crews cannot force the door shut if it does not want to close. The DC-10 door was so constructed that a grown man could twist the handle into place and make the door look closed and make it appear that the safety bolts supporting the latches were in place.

— Inside the door, the linkages, the levers connecting the handle to the bolts, simply buckled. A badly-adjusted door, like that on the Turkish Airlines DC-10, needed even less force to appear closed.

In June, 1972, came the first incident in the air with the DC-10 two miles up over Windsor, Ontario. A section of floor above collapsed. But only partially because it was only lightly loaded, so some of the control circuits survived. The aircraft was saved because the pilot had practiced on a simulator until he had learned to live with total hydraulics failure, steering by using differential throttling of the three engines. It worked that time in real life.

The investigation that followed this incident brought promises of modifications from McDonnell Douglas: extending the length of the safety bolts; beefing up the linkages to make them more rigid; putting in a largely useless peephole so that ground crews could see — if they could through the grime — whether the bolts were home.

But the FAA agreed that these be done under a "gentlemen's agreement" rather than under a mandatory Airworthiness Directive.

McDonnell Douglas was about to take a DC-10 on a world sales tour; Lockheed was doing the same with its TriStar. A directive would have made bad publicity for one American aviation company.

Legislation allows an often over-cozy relationship between the FAA — the policemen — and the industry it is supposed to be policing. One other modification has been introduced as a result of the DC-10 crash — and it had been suggested long before, but pigeon-holed.

To prevent explosive decompression making the floor collapse, all wide-bodied jets must be fitted with vent panels at floor level to allow a pressure build-up to disperse rapidly. After Paris, the FAA at first said this must be done to all aircraft flying under American colors by the end of 1977.

Last week it was announced that to allow some airlines to make the modification when their aircraft are in for major overhauls, the date has been put back to the end of 1978.

America's newly elected president should seek to change the FAA's rules to remove any ambiguity about whom it is there to serve — the public who fly or buy American aircraft.

The Lighter Side

Poor Carter faces Demo congress

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thanks to the transition machinery now being set up, control of the executive branch is expected to pass from a Republican to a Democratic president with a minimum of friction.

Where the rub will come is in the transition to a Democratic president and Democratic Congress.

In only eight of the last 22 years has a president been forced to deal with a Congress controlled by members of his own party. The disadvantages of that arrangement are obvious.

FOREMOST, IT deprives the president of something to blame when things go wrong, as things have a way of doing.

In 1946, for example, things were going so badly for Harry Truman it appeared he didn't have a prayer of being returned to the White House.

Had the Democrats retained their congressional majority that year, he undoubtedly would have suffered a crushing defeat at the hands of Thomas E. Dewey in 1948.

But as luck would have it, Truman was able to spend the 1948 campaign castigating a Republican Congress for all that was wrong. The result was the political upset of the century.

Unfortunately for the Democrats, their party also regained control of Congress in the 1948 election. For the next four years, they had nobody to blame but themselves. Which paved the way for Dwight Eisenhower's Republican victory in 1952.

AFTER IKE'S first two years as president, the war hero image that helped carry him to the White House was beginning to pale. Then he, like Truman, got a break.

The 1954 congressional election produced a Democratic victory, and Ike was blessed with opposition control of the legislative branch for the duration of his presidency.

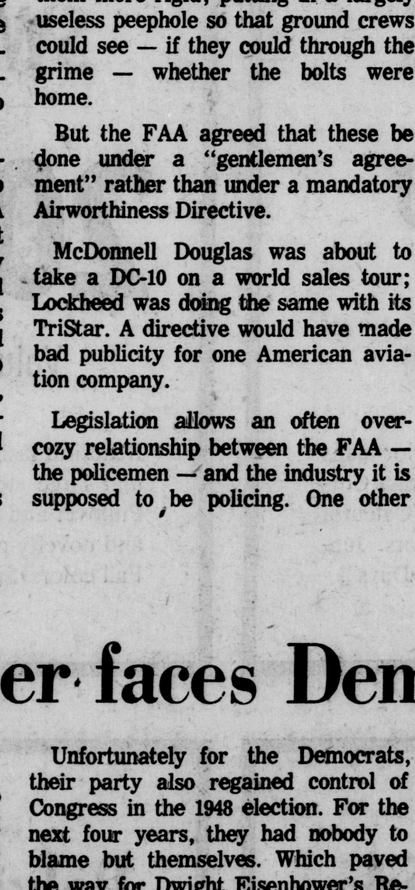
In consequence, he was reelected by a landslide in 1956 and ended his second term at a high level of popularity.

Death cut short the presidency of John F. Kennedy, so we shall never know whether he would have survived the burden of having the congressional leadership in Democratic hands.

We do know, however, that Lyndon Johnson after six years in that situation, had to abandon any idea of running for reelection in 1968.

REPUBLICAN RICHARD Nixon rode to a smashing 1972 reelection victory on the backs of a Democratic Congress. Gerald Ford went into the 1976 camapaign with almost nothing going for him except an opposition Congress, and that proved almost enough to turn the tide.

Poor Jimmy Carter! Stuck for at least two years with one of the largest Democratic congressional majorities in history! Well, Carter knows what it's like to surmount obstacles. When the time comes to run for reelection, maybe he'll pull through somehow. But it'll be uphill all the way.



"I guess you know how we Republican congressmen feel, eh, little leaf?"

National Tea to reopen as A&P

by LEA TONKIN

Customers at National Food Stores in Palatine, Wheeling, Arlington Heights and Des Plaines will find the outlets closed Sunday and Monday while the stores are spruced up for a reopining Tuesday as A&P Food Stores, according to a Thursday joint announcement by Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. and the National Tea Co.

The Northwest suburban outlets are included in a 62-store package deal tentatively announced Oct. 1. National announced its intention to sell the stores to A&P, noting that it also considered complete withdrawal from the Chicago area market. Fifty-four of the National stores which will reopen Tuesday as A&P outlets are in the Chicago metropolitan area, Indiana and Iowa. Eight stores included in the transaction are in the Milwaukee area.

Approximately 98 other National stores in the Chicago region are "in various stages of negotiation," a National spokesman said Thursday. Approximately 80 per cent of the area stores are covered by current talks. Additional National stores are in Rolling Meadows, Buffalo Grove, and Mount Prospect.

A&P HAS AN existing store in Mount Prospect at 1500 S. Elmhurst, and the food store chain is building an outlet in Schaumburg at Irving and Wise roads.

The local stores newly acquired by A&P include outlets at 534 Hicks Rd., Palatine; 1900 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling; 100 E. Rand Rd., Arlington Heights; and 1155 Lee St., Des Plaines. The firm had no comment about stores which have not been acquired by other chains or independent retailers, although National's exist from the Chicago area is expected to be completed by year's end.

Fixtures, equipment and inventories are included in the 62-store deal announced Thursday, said Grant Gentry, A&P president. "We are most pleased that with the acquistion of the 62 stores, we will be able to offer an A&P shopping experience to many potential customers who previously found our stores inconvenient," he said. "We are also pleased to offer employment to National Tea employes working in the 62 stores we are acquiring."

Be it known that legalese is declining

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

Be it known that you, party of the first part, a legitimate subscriber to this periodical, are admonished to evaluate the following material, the substance of which is the employment of legalistic phraseology for the purposes of conveying rights, obligations and other elements of commercial transactions.

In other words, this column is about all that legal mumbo-jumbo that you find in insurance policies, contracts and any other document where you have the feeling that the other guy doesn't want you to know what you're signing.

I call it legalese, and it's a quaint art form that must have been developed by a bunch of crusty old law professors and judges who weren't exactly sure what they meant to say, and didn't want anyone else to be either.

WELL, THANK heavens, the use of legalese seems to be fading out in our society. Within a few generations it may be gone altogether. An all-too-small number of major financial firms have begun to revise all of their mealy-mouthed documents into readable English, and it's a trend that deserves attention.

Latest in the fold is mutual fund giant Investors Diversified Service (IDS) which has had its Investors Stock Fund prospectus rewritten in people language. While it's still not a bedtime story, it does offer a lucid and understandable presentation of what it's all about. IDS is to be congratulated.

Coca-Cola settles job inequities case

The Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Chicago has agreed to pay $200,000 to some of its minority group employes "in an attempt to resolve inequities," the chairman of the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission said Thursday. Commission Chairman Susan Vance said Coa-Cola agreed on Wednesday to make the payments without admitting it had discriminated against women or minority employes. "What I regard as a much more significant portion of the agreement relates to the patterns and practices in hiring and promotion at Coca-Cola," she said. "They were significantly revised and they (Coa-Cola) agreed to come in with an affirmative action program." Vance said details of the settlement cannot be made public because Coa-Cola agreed to a settlement before the matter went to public hearings. But she said the $200,000 will be divided among fewer than 100 employes in the Chicago area.

Effects of oil price rise told

The United States tried to head off an increase in world oil prices by warning the oil-exporting countries Thursday that even a small rise would hurt all countries, including the oil producers. State Dept. spokesman Robert Funseth said, "We are very much opposed to any price rise. We don't believe it to be justified and it is not in the best interests of the world economy and of the oil producers themselves." He said even a 5 per cent increase would cost the economies of the oil-importing countries $6 billion a year. Some countries, led by Iran, are reported to be seeking a 10 to 20 per cent increase, citing the higher costs for imports of other goods, including arms.

Shoplifting prevention campaign

"Everything has a price week" is slated for Nov. 14 to 20 by the Illinois Retail Merchants Assn. as a shoplifting prevention campaign. Retail theft is a $6.5 billion crime that includes shoplifting, employe error and theft. Losses in Illinois amount to $900 million a year. Gov. Daniel Walker issued a proclamation for the event, noting that retail theft hurts "customers, who must be charged higher prices to compensate for the loss, and the general public, since lost tax revenues require cutbacks in public services."

UAW makes new demands of GM

The United Auto Workers said Thursday the first economic offer General Motors has made in four months of contract negotiations contains "many shortfalls." The union countered with new contract demands one week before a strike deadline for 390,000 workers. The bargaining teams met for 45 minutes in a "main table" meeting headed by UAW Vice President Irving Bluestone and GM Vice President George Morris Jr. The UAW will strike the world's largest auto company at 12:01 a.m. Nov. 19 unless there is agreement to a three-year contract that matches contracts worked out at the Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. The union's 118,000 U.S. and Canadian Chrysler members vote next Monday and Tuesday on a tentative contract with the No. 3 auto company.

FED to keep to moderate policies

Chairman Arthur Burns said Thursday the Federal Reserve Board intends to hold to its moderate monetary policies, believing the nation's economy will pick up "in the near future." Burns also told the Senate Banking Committee he thinks the inflation rate will drop to around 5 per cent next year, with the Gross National Product rising by 6 per cent. Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the board's moderate money expansion course, in the face of continued high unemployment, was making fiscal expansion by Congress "inevitable."

Dow Jones up 7.39 in slow trading

Bargain hunters sparked a small rally Thursday afternoon to drive prices higher for the first time in five sessions, but trading on the New York Stock Exchange was the slowest in more than two weeks.

The Dow Jones industrial average, off about four points at the outset, gained 7.39 to 931.43. A 6.73-point loser Wednesday, the blue-chip average had fallen to a 10-month low by losing 36.40 points the previous four sessions and 42.05 points since the Nov. 2 election.

Because of those large losses, analysts said some investors found blue chips were selling at bargain prices. They said there was little news to spark the buying.

The NYSE common stock index gained 0.39 to 53.29 and the average price of a common share increased by 24 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, gained 0.83 to 99..64.

Priest of home charged with homosexual acts

WINCHESTER, Tenn. (UPI) — A county grand jury Thursday returned a 16-count indictment against an Episcopal priest accused of establishing ahome for wayward boys and using it for homosexual orgies.

Authorities said the Rev. Claudius I. "Bud" Vermilye was indicted on 11 felony and five misdemeanor counts.

The priest is accused of engaging in homosexual activities with the children and selling pornographic pictures of them to raise money for his "Boys Farm Inc."

District Atty. General J. William Pope ordered Vermilye's arrest Wednesday.

PETE BOULDIN, one of Pope's investigators, and young men present when authorities raided the farm a week ago, were among eight witnesses called to testify before the Franklin County grand jury.

Vermilye, 47, featured in the current issue of the national church magazine "The Living Church," has operated the farm for wayward youngsters near the Alto community for the past five years.

Pope claims Vermilye showed the boys adult movies to get them sexually aroused, gave them liquor to make them less inhibited, photographed them engaging in homosexual acts and sold the pictures to raise money for the farm.

Vermilye founded the farm in 1971 as a rehabilitation center for juvenile offenders and juveniles from broken homes.

Pope said children were sent to the farm, which has no connection with the Episcopal Church, by the State Correction Dept., juvenile authorities and welfare agencies.

Russ Meyer's new star

Enjoying her X-rated adventure

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Raven De La Croix was lunching with a friend, nibbling on a spinach salad when a 20th Century casting director from Hollywood walked up to her table and offered to make her a movie star.

Raven didn't flinch. She was unimpressed.

"I'm always being hit upon by so-called casting directors," said the decidedly top heavy brunette.

Yet that particular afternoon the director refused to be brushed off. He told how they had been fervently searching for an unknown female lead for Russ Meyer's new film, "Up!", pausing only long enough to quietly inquire, "Do you mind doing nudity roles?"

"I SAID I JUST didn't like patronizing obscenity," said Raven, who had never even seen an X-rated film. Nor had she heard of Russ Meyer. But the casting director was persistent. So was her boss who said, "Do it. You're crazy if you don't."

Raven accepted the role. With no previous acting experience, fancy portfolio or pressure-powered agent to represent her, and giving up the two jobs necessary to support her 10-year-old son and herself, Raven overnight became a leading lady — of sorts.

"As long as it remains a challenge I would like to stay in films. Except I'd never do another X-rated one — not unless it was for Russ. He's the only safe person. Most other nudity producers also have X-rated minds," said Raven relaxing in her hotel room the night before "Up!" was to open in Chicago.

A dog-eared copy of "Savage Love" was marked and turned over on the bed — "It's a good, searing love story if you like that kind of thing." Piles of sexy portraits, cheaply bordering on risque were put there for Raven to sign. They would be handed out the next day.

"Actually this movie couldn't have been better for me," said Raven puffing on a cigarello. "I got to do all my own stunts and everything. Most leading ladies have doubles come in for them. Of course, the money could have been better — it always can, right?"

IT WASN'T THAT Raven had never considered acting. "But the big hustle really turns me off. I was in the music business so I'm used to the Hollywood bullshit," said Raven, who was a receptionist and in public relations for Far Out Productions.

"This is no Academy Award winner," continued Raven about "Up!", "but it will make people chuckle — those who don't take it too seriously.

"It's not hard core, I can tell you that. I can't fathom anyone having sex on screen. I'm a romanticist at heart and I think sex is pretty groovey. I would hate to do anything that might turn me off," she continued.

"This film is made to look explicit, of course. But that makes for a more attractive product.

"I play a Mae West kind of lady cop, Margo Winchester," said Raven, whose name really is Raven De La Croix.

Relating highlights of the movie she continued, "I become promiscuously involved with the townspeople because they mustn't know I'm a policewoman. Violence is always superficial in this film. And it's not that sexy. What I mean is, the raincoat brigade will never get off on it. It's X-rated sure, but soft."

FOR RAVEN, shedding her clothes was all in a day's work.

"I just committed myself. In the beginning I get raped. I was kept so busy defending myself, I didn't think about it. I was waiting to be mortified but it never happened. Anyhow, there were always a couple of us naked at a time. It just seemed natural."

If Raven, the eldest of eight children, had never seen an X-rated film, neither had her mother.

She has now, one starring her daughter.

"Expect nudity and realize, please, the sex isn't real, I told my mother. Otherwise don't go to see it," said Raven who added her mother after viewing it, though it was funny.

Raven hopes her role in "Up!" will bring her to the attention of other producers. But she isn't starry-eyed over future prospects.

"I'm an adventuress. I like new challenges. Some I can't pass up. Like this. But it took a lot of guts, too, you know."

THOUGH RAVEN IS featured from "Up!" in this month's issue of Playboy, she has turned down other offers from girlie magazines.

"All they want is crotch shots. In the whole movie you never see my crotch once."

Nor will she cater to directors' sexual whims (according to Russ Meyer, still a prerequisite to getting to the top) just to land a good part.

"I'd never do it. It's just not that important to me."

Said Raven, "I don't even date that much. Men find me unapproachable. I don't know why because I'm friendly. I've found out who I am; I don't like people trying to fit me into their lifestyles. I have few dates, but I keep long friendships with those I do go out.

"The demands I put on men I meet, are high. I've had two bad marriages where I was always a servant. I want to like to serve, not have to do it. Men have to recognize who I really am, not who they assume I am," continued Raven.

OVERALL THE experience of starring in "Up!", according to Raven, "has been a lot of fun."

"I'd never do anything I wouldn't want my son, Matoux, to see when he turns 18."

Soft-core porno 'chief' controls all the action

by GENIE CAMPBELL

"Come on over, Chief," said the female star of "Up!" to director/producer Russ Meyer, who was waiting his turn in his own room across the hall.

It was Meyer's idea. He didn't think it fair to hang around while Raven was being interviewed.

But there he was. His presence and casual manner appeared plain and unassuming compared to the notoriety of his name and movie reputation. Yet in the next 45 minutes emerged an honest, easy-going disposition that no doubt goes a long way toward the success of his films.

How does Meyer choose leading ladies? It's very simple.

"WELL, YOU CAN SEE by the picture there," he said pointing to the publicity stills on the bed, "my trademark is one very voluptuous girl in every movie. Otherwise, the audience stays away."

Another Meyer characteristic is always casting unknowns. His style of filmmaking (short cuts and tight editing) allows him to work around lack of experience.

"Needless to say, it's not necessary for my actresses to be graduates of the Sarah Bernhart school of acting," said Meyer, who considers common sense more important than credits and looking the part most important of all.

On film Meyer is the undisputed king of exhibitionism, and while other X-rated porno flicks are relegated to the shady fringes of town, his movies — "Vixen," "Cherry, Harry and Raquel," "The Immoral Mr. Teas" and "Supervixens," to name a few — play right into the major houses. He might follow on the coattails, for instance, of Robert Redford or Clint Eastwood.

"Vixen," the "Deep Throat" of its day, was released in 1969. Ever since, the name Russ Meyer has been synonymous with bare skin.

THOUGH HE MADE a couple of R-rated films in between — "Seven Minutes" which flopped and "Beyond the Valley of the Dolls," — Meyer doesn't think he would ever attempt one again.

"If one of my films would get an R rating now, I'd go out and shoot more skin for an X. My fans expect it."

Though "Vixen," according to Meyer, would do very well again if released today (It set a new Chicago record: a year and two weeks), it is no longer unique.

"It was new then. That kind of success will never happen again unless we cast Steve McQueen and Jackie Onassis together."

Meyer is a virtual one-man operation, calling every shot from beginning to end. He writes the scripts, directs, edits and finances the movie himself. He even promotes it.

And this, he strongly believes, is the strength behind his pictures.

Russ Meyer

Unlike many self-professed critics who believe porno is on its way out, Meyer feels it is here to stay.

"There's always that hard core audience that goes to X-rated films week in and week out," he said. But his current nationwide publicity tour for "Up!" "is to get out and excite those not excited by the advertising."

YET MEYER QUICKLY added, "The public is much more particular today. You can't lay any schlock on them."

Meyer is a one-man operation not only by choice but by necessity. No one, he said, understands his style, no one but Roger Ebert, film critic for the Chicago Sun-Times who collaborated on the writing of "Beyond the Valley of the Dolls." He's the only writer Meyer would consent to team with again.

"I've hired hack writers. By that I mean those who write for TV day in and day out. They don't understand the style of Russ Meyer.

"They say I'm not very sensitive. But my movies aren't meant to be sensitive. They're parodies.

"If I should have a sensitive, serious scene of lovemaking, I'll

BACK ON TOP in show business, comic Sid Caesar, left, trades laughs with Dick Van Dyke under a portrait of Caesar in a comedy skit from "Van Dyke and Company," to be aired on NBC at a future date as yet unannounced.

Sid Caesar's up front again and loving it

by VERNON SCOTT

Sid Caesar, more shadow than substance since his television series expired 20 years ago, is enjoying an ascent movie career which could boom him back to stardom.

"I never dreamed my career would take this turn," said Sid. "I'm doing one picture after another. But I'm not complaining."

Caesar just completed "Fire Sale" at 20th Century-Fox after playing a lead role in the NBC-TV movie "Flight to Holocaust." His next is top billing in "Billy."

SID'S RETURN from limbo probably was inspired by his wacky performance in Mel Brooks' "Silent Movie" earlier this year.

It is more than coincidence that Brooks was once a writer on Sid's old "Show of Shows" series in the early 1950s. Among Caesar's costars in "Fire Sale" is Rob Reiner, son of Carl Reiner, who was a writer and performer on Sid's series.

"I couldn't afford Mel and Carl if I did that series today," Sid said. "In fact, a single show would probably cost me a million bucks if I hired the same talent.

"It's hard to think of another show that was the starting ground for so many outstanding people. In addition to Mel and Carl there were Larry Gelbart, Howie Morris and Aaron Reuben. Mike Stewart went on to write 'Bye, Bye Birdie.'

"They all became producers. And you know who else was on that staff? Neil Simon. He's the most successful playwright in the country today."

SID KEEPS IN touch with his old costar, Imogene Coca. They worked together as recently as a year and a half ago doing scenes on stage from the old show.

During his five years with "Show of Shows" and another two years as kingpin of "Caesar's Hour," Sid ran things his own way, supervising scripts, improvising and writing.

"I had a lot of authority and autonomy," he recalled. "I was in charge of the comedy stuff. I held the production numbers to a maximum of three and a half minutes.

"People tuned in to laugh, not to watch song and dance numbers. And we all made contributions. When we got an idea for a sketch, we'd put it right on its feet to see if it got laughs. If not, we dumped it because there wasn't time enough to try to fix it."

SID HAS CONSIDERABLY less to say about the content of his work in the rigid structure of motion pictures. The director is in charge. The producer puts in his two cents worth.

"If I can change things in pictures, I do," he said. "I talk it out with the directors. They give me an open field of fire. I like to think I bring an extra dimension to any part I play.

"I adapt to things very quickly. For instance, in pictures you have to do the timing in your head.

"If you think a line is going to get a laugh, you read it a fraction slower to give the audience time to hear it. With the same line on television you get your laugh instantly. If not, you go right on to the next thing.

"A comedian doesn't have the luxury of 'the next thing' in a pause."

CAESAR HAS experienced little difficulty in the transition from television comic to movie comedy actor. He built his reputation as a sketch comedian as opposed to monology. In a sense, he was "acting" all along.

"The first thing to remember in either case is that the audience has to believe in you," Sid said. "When they believe you, then you can go any way you want and they'll go along with you.

"But if you start out crazy, you lose them right away."

Sid is baffled by the number of young people who attend his stage appearances. Earlier this year he hit the road in "Last of the Red Hot Lovers."

"The kids range in age from their teens to their late twenties," he said. "They couldn't remember me from television because they were too young or not even born when I was on the air.

"In some of the places I worked this summer 'Silent Movie' hadn't been shown yet. I don't know where they come from. Maybe their parents tell them about me.

"I DON'T UNDERSTAND it. But I'm not knocking it either. I've got a new career and I'm enjoying every minute of it."

'Carrie' based on novel

Ending makes you jump

Review

by GENIE CAMPBELL

When the book "Carrie" first came out, its heavy promotion overpowered me and I bought it. In a weird sort of way that I'm almost embarrassed to admit, I thoroughly enjoyed it.

So when the motion picture of the same name opened, I was even more curious. Brian De Palma, who most recently gave us "Obsession," will also succeed with "Carrie." It comes across the screen even stronger in the wake of other highly billed intense tinglers that flopped.

And Palma, whose ending in "Obsession" was less than satisfactory, makes up for it here, with a final scene able to rocket everyone from their seats. You don't know it's coming — even if you've read the book. In this one instance, Palma comes exceedingly close to the style of hero, Alfred Hitchcock.

CARRIE (SISSY SPACEK) is shy and introverted, the daughter of a religious fanatic (Piper Laurie) repeatedly taunted by her classmates and berated by her mother who locks her in the closet to repent and pray.

Carrie soon realizes she has a special power, telekinesis, the ability to move objects by concentrated thought.

However, the full strength of this power is never realized until Carrie, transformed from a plain Jane into a beauty for the prom, is once more the target of a cruel, humiliating joke. The entire town feels her wrath.

One other highlight of this film that delivers fine performances by everyone, particularly Spacek and Laurie, is a new face on the screen, William Katt.

FORTUNATELY this film is rated R or young girls would be screaming in the aisle. Katt, who plays a handsome, personable high school football star, looks like a young, funky Robert Redford. Everyone notices it right off, so you can be sure we'll be seeing plenty more of him.

'Two-Minute Warning'

Imagine the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum filled to capacity for a championship football game and a sniper behind the scoreboard begins to pick off the crowd two minutes before the final gun.

That's the basis for "Two-Minute Warning," a human kind of disaster picture that gives me the creeps.

Movie goers sit through the first three quarters of the movie getting their appetites whetted for the final scene, the mass exit of 90,000 panicked people from the stadium which of course, is one mangled holocaust of bodies.

WHAT A WASTE of Charlton Heston, John Cassavetes, Martin Balsam, David Janssen, Jack Klugman and Walter Pidgeon.

We are given plenty of pictures of the Goodyear blimp, action shots of the Los Angeles Rams vs. the Baltimore Colts if football's your game, and an entire chorus of the national anthem sung by Merv Griffin, but little character development.

"Two-Minute Warning" is meant to make a statement on the symbol of our era, impersonal random terror directed at unsuspecting, innocent victims. But pure sensationalism is all it is. The movie's rated R.

S.W.A.T. SGT. Chris Button (John Cassavetes) is watching the game when he receives a call about a sniper at the Los Angeles Coliseum in Universal's "Two-Minute Warning."

Movie guide

Designed to help readers decide which movies they want to see, this guide includes a listing of movies currently playing in the Northwest suburban area plus capsule summaries and comments, based on reports of the Independent Film Journal, for selected films of interest to readers.

"The Next Man" — This mystery is based on a true incident which took place during the height of the oil crisis. The Saudi Arabian representative to the United States falls in love with a beautiful American girl who belongs to an assination team, which kills for their own mysterious reasons. Stars Sean Connery and Cornelia Sharpe. (R).

"The Shootist" — John Wayne mellows into what may prove the finest role of his career, an aging legendary gunfighter who puts his lifelong ideals in order as he waits out the final seven days of his life.(PG).

"Shout at the Devil" — Epic adventure based on a true story of the destruction of a disabled World War I German warship hiding out in the innards of Africa, undergoing repair. Stars Lee Marvin, Roger Moore and Barbara Parkins. (PG).

"The Front" — An entertaining, informative and thoroughly involving comedy-drama about the entertainment industry's infamous "blacklist" of the early 1950s, with Woody Allen outstanding as a none-too-bright cashier catapuled to fame by submitting the scripts of banished TV writers under his own name. Though it's essentially a fantasy — Allen becomes a committed martyr to free speech — the film maximizes both the absurdity and underlying destructiveness of the era to great effect. (PG)

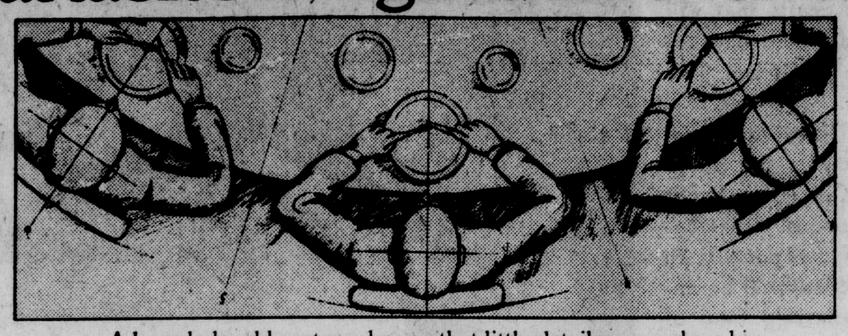
Why we put ten people at tables designed for twelve.



A knowledgeable caterer knows that little details can make a big difference in the success of a meeting, banquet or party.

And that's why we consider a table's eating space. Not just seating space. And why, for certain meetings, provide shaved ice in the water pitchers, instead of ice cubes. To cut down on distracting noise.

It's a certain kind of thoughtfulness that makes a big difference.

And we offer it right along with the availability of gourmet foods. Indoor, out-of-the-weather parking for up to 1,100 cars. A variety of meeting rooms for groups as small as 10, as large as 1,850. Besides the prestige, location, and luxurious accommodations of the Hyatt Regency.

So instead of trying to remember hundreds of details for your next affair, just remember one. Our phone number. (312) 565-1000.

New movie in film festival

The Herbert Ross film, "The Seven Per Cent Solution," will be shown at the Uptown Theatre Tuesday at 9:15 p.m. as part of the Chicago International Film Festival.

Nicholas Meyer, on whose best selling novel the movie is based, will make an appearance at the theater before the showing with one of the stars of the film.

Filmed in England and Vienna, the Sherlock Holmes movie is currently playing in New York city, its only U. S. engagement.

Produced and directed by Herbert Ross, with screen-play by Nicholas Meyer, the film stars Alan Arkin, Vanessa Redgrave, Robert Duvall, Nicol Williamson as Sherlock Holmes, Laurence Olivier, Joel Grey, Samantha Eggar, Charles Gray, Georgia Brown, Regine and Jeremy Kemp. The film is slated for a national Christmas release.

COUNT DRACULA, alias Frank Getz, zeros in on Grace Seaman in a scene from Village Theatre's "Count Dracula," opening Saturday at Hersey High School. (See Billboard.)

Magician to autograph book

Gilbert is a professional magician and a member of the American Society of Magicians.

Excellent cast heads 'A Majority of One'

by PAT ADAM

(A review)

No matter that "A Majority of One" is somewhat dated in its setting, a few years after World War II. Its appeal is timeless.

A Jewish widow and a Japanese businessman, both still remembering loss of loved ones in the war between their countries, meet aboard ship and, transcending differences in custom and tradition, become good friends.

The touchingly humorous play by Leonard Spigelgass is currently being presented by Des Plaines Theatre Guild at its Playhouse on Lee Street and provides a most pleasant evening of entertainment.

Much of its success can be attributed to the excellent cast, headed by Arlette Dawson as the Jewish lady, Mrs. Jacoby, and Danny Santerior, making his auspicious debut in a major role as the very proper Japanese gentleman, Mr. Asano.

A SECOND FACTOR in making the evening rewarding is the exquisite set and costuming in the scene where Mrs. Jacoby visits Mr. Asano in his home. We easily feel ourselves sharing his gracious hospitality as elegantly costumed servants and family glide about attending Mrs. Jacoby to both her consternation and her delight.

Arlette Dawson projects warmth, motherliness and a sense of adventure in her portrayal of the Brooklyn-bound Mrs. Jacoby, whose basic humanity enables her to overcome prejudice against a former enemy whose homeland she holds responsible for the death of her son in World War II.

SANTERIOR AVOIDS the pitfall of a stereotyped characterization of the courtly but shrewd Koichi Asano. He speaks in the typical English pattern of the Japanese but conveys Asano's good humor and sense of propriety in his facial expressions, mannerisms and voice inflections.

Paula Unell and Chuck Cell appear as Mrs. Jacoby's daughter, Alice, and her son-in-law, Jerry, a State Department officer whose assignment to Tokyo prompts the ocean crossing during which Mrs. Jacoby and Asano meet. Ms. Unell seemed somewhat stiff as the loving and concerned daughter in the opening night performance, but Cell was excellent as the son-in-law, whose own prejudice surfaces when he learns the Japanese gentleman's true intentions toward his mother-in-law.

Peter Piper, subbing for Don Colligan opening night, gave a strong interpretation of the houseboy Eddie, who continually threatens to go work for another embassy because Mrs. Jacoby functions as if she were still in a servantless Brooklyn apartment. Eddie is not above bribery of a minor sort.

While many hands went into making this a successful production, the major ones responsible are Hank Vandenboom as director; Joel Cohen as producer; Marshall Kievit, set design; Larry Peterson, lighting; and Jackie Shadinger, costumes.

Fresh seafood offsets a lack of atmosphere

Seafood lovers are often weary of the surf side of menus but no need at the Mark III in Skokie.

A real find for the seafood afficionado whose only interest is a good piece of fish, the restaurant at 3300 Dempster St. features a couple of "daily catches" in addition to its regular selection.

George Lekas, who has owned the restaurant for 17 years, personally visits the fish markets each day to select the daily specials which vary with the season.

A wide assortment of seafood appetizers ranging from blue points to shrimp de jonghe make it difficult to know where to start the meal.

I SELECTED THE escargot bourgionne, six for $2.95. They were tasty, but the real delicacy was my husband's choice of baked oysters a la risque. The oysters were topped with a blend of bread crumbs, butter, garlic, parsley and white wine, again six for $2.95.

The impulse to order another round of oysters was squelched luckily because the seafood to follow was just as good.

The daily catches on the day we visited the Mark III were flounder stuffed with crab meat, $6.95; fresh Lake Superior white fish, $6.25; and red snapper, $6.95.

I chose the red snapper which was excellent despite its unappetizing presentation. Instead of a nice garnish on the plate, the fish was practically buried in escarole.

My husband chose the stuffed flounder which was also very fresh and tasty. The portions were not huge but ample.

ALSO ON THE MENU are baked Boston scrod served almondine with clam sauce, $6.25; Alaskan king crab leg, $9.95; french fried oyster, $5.75; breaded french fried shrimp, $5.25; and other seafood specialties ranging from $4.75 to $9.95.

For those who don't like seafood, the restaurant offers a large selection of steaks and a selection of American dishes with "a touch of Italiano" including barbequed chicken and spaghetti, $4.25; and back ribs and spaghetti, $5.25.

Diners are able to help themselves to a soup and salad bar served out of a boat. The salad greens were wilted, dressings bad and other salad dishes limited the night we visited. The soup choices were onion and vegetable, both rather tasteless.

The restaurant is a perfect example of how much decor and food presentation can add to the total dining experience. While the seafood was excellent, the atmosphere was uninviting.

THE LARGE DINING room, with red carpeting on the walls and black leather chairs, was void of any atmosphere; the waitresses were dressed in uniforms reminiscent of carhops and the food presentation was very unappetizing.

If as much care were put into the surroundings as preparation of food at Mark III, the total dining experience could be greatly enhanced.

Meyer is already at work on the script for his next movie which he calls "a flip side of 'Lorna' " which he made in 1958. He hopes to have it released by next September.

Hard core of any kind is off limits for Meyer though he sees in his future work more titillation, more humor, more appeal for his future work more titillation, more humor, more appeal for women.

For instance, rape will be on the other foot — a woman molesting a man.

"THERE'S A WHOLE new area to be explored, but always in a tongue-in-cheek fashion," said Meyer.

And, of course, he'll be scouting for new talent. Yet what about his veteran leading ladies? How have they fared?

"It occurred to me that some married well. But there hasn't been one girl who has gone out to do anything else. Mainly it's the girl's fault. They lose sight of their ambition," said Meyer, adding that it takes a certain kind of ruthlessness to make it to the top.

"You're not going to make it being a nice, straight girl. The casting couch is still very much in existence. Directors will ask — does she swing? If not, get rid of her.

"It's a very evil town, Hollywood. I don't know if anyone is straight. Any girl who's attractive can expect that big heavy hand laid on her thigh. Only thing is, too many of them end up with only the assistant director."

Night out

'Sassy' end to mellow first night

by LAURA SCHMALBACH

Even though SARAH VAUGHAN was more mellow than frisky in her opening night act at the BLUE MAX of the Hyatt Regency O'Hare Monday, "Miss Sassy" lived up to her name by calling it quits the next day.

Unhappy about the size of the piano, Vaughan left Tuesday night's audience nursing their drinks and checking their watches in vain after her husband manager MARSHALL FISHER advised her to pack her bags, despite the Hyatt Regency's promise to have a new piano by Wednesday.

Ironically, the jazz virtuoso had earned herself a standing ovation from the opening nighters with her medley of old standbys and pop hits, each one featuring the incredible range that's become her trademark.

Her ample frame swatched in a sequined purple gown, Vaughan evoked plenty of spine tingles and admiring shrugs as she belted out an emotional "What Are You Doing The Rest of Your Life" and a bouncy rendition of "The Lamp Is Low."

And when she launched into her own version of "Feelings," she displayed more emotion with her resonant alto and velvet soprano than Barry Manilow ever mustered.

Despite her annoyance with the keyboard, Vaughan maintained a subdued cameraderie with her audience as she joked in a fluttery voice and dabbed her face with a never-ending supply of tissues plucked from inside the piano. It's too bad the opening act, BOB SYDNEY, didn't have the same rapport.

Firing one bad joke after another at his hapless victims, Sydney was forced to settle for painful silences during most of his act. His tired lines about New York City, the Ku Klux Klan and Jews drew only yawns, and when he countered with "that's the story that kept me out of the Big Time," I saw more than one nod of agreement.

Standing in for Vaughan tonight through Nov. 20 will be vocalist Carmen McCrea.

The MUPPETS from television's "Sesame Street" will participate in this year's edition of the ICE FOLLIES beginning Tuesday at the Chicago Stadium.

The new show, which runs through Nov. 26, will feature a parody of the Ice Follies stars by Cookie Monster and the rest of the Sesame Street crew. Tuesday's opening night will benefit Augustana Hospital.

Tickets may be purchased at the stadium.

DIONNE WARWICK and ISSAC HAYES are the co-stars of a concert entitled "A MAN AND A WOMAN," being presented Nov. 20 and 21 at Arie Crown Theatre. There will be two shows both nights. Information: 791-6000.

JIM HILL, weekend weatherman for Channel 5, and JIM BEEDLE, all-night host of WJJD, will judge the best costumes for the Barn of Barrington's square dance night Wednesday.

Local participants include Emily Monroe, Ginnie Faloon and Myrna Golay, all of Arlington Heights. The sale will also feature weaving and spinning demonstrations and the sale of weaving, spinning and plant dyeing books. Proceeds will benefit the group's philanthropies.

Scrimshaw jewelry to be exhibited

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Unintentional burps found embarrassing

My problem is that I burp constantly. Everyone thinks I do it on purpose. In school (I'm 16) my teachers thought I was making fun instead of listening to them. My parents think I do it on purpose just to be rude.

The burps are loud and last long. Even if I close my mouth and cover it up, everyone can still hear me. My sister told me not to gulp my food and drinks so I tried that, but it didn't work.

I burp all day no matter where I am. I even burp in church. This very embarrassing and annoying. I guess I am the burper of the year. Please help me.

Of coursey ou are not doing it on purpose, but it is porbably a nervous habit that you don't understand. Being nervous or anxious among other reasons about burping just makes matters worse.

The burping occurs because you have a lot of air in your stomach. Anyone who has air in the stomach swallows it. Gas can be formed from foods inside the colon, but foods are not digested or fermented sufficiently in the stomach to cause any gas there.

When a doctor or parents tell you not to swallow air, it is a tough assignment since you are unaware of swallowing air to begin with. How can you stop something you don't know you are doing?

The best trick I have to offer is to hold a firm rubber eraser between your teeth. It is difficult to swallow with your teeth in that position. You will soon become aware of your swallowing habit and then you can do something about it. Try it and see if it helps.

Your sister is right about not gulping your food. Also, avoid all the gas-forming beverages, such as the colas, that will release gas in your stomach from the soda water.

To give you more help I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-8, Controlling Gaseousness. Others who have burping or gas problems can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. My 16-year-old son recently injured his lower back running in a track meet. At the coach's suggestion I took him to a local hospital to have it examined. X-rays were also taken although I questioned the need and also requested a lead shield which was used on front exposures. The X-rays revealed nothing wrong and now I am left with a lingering fear that by allowing these X-rays, I may have caused possible damage to my son's reproductive organs. He has only had X-rays once before in his life and that was a chest X-ray for two broken ribs. What is your opinion?

My opinion is that you are wasting your time worrying about it. The low level of X-rays used, and especially if a lead shield was used, can't possibly affect his reproductive organs.

Millions of males have received much more radiation than that and have not had any ill effects from it. This is true even though a lead shield for the genitals was not a standard procedure at one time. I approve of the precaution of using a shield, but the truth is that the usual amount of radiation involved in the number of diagnostic X-rays used is far below the level that will cause any harm.

Fixing furniture dents possible, but tricky

Dear Dorothy: Just got two dents on a new piece of furniture. I understand there is a way to correct things like this with a damp cloth and warm iron. Do you have the instructions for this? — Mrs. Robert J. Edwards

It's tricky, but if the dents aren't too deep it's worth trying the method recommended by University of Kentucky researchers. Place several layers of wet cloth, dampened heavy brown wrapping paper or blotting paper over the dents. Hold a warm iron on the dampened material for a few seconds. So long as you see it working, repeat as often as necessary. The iron should not be too hot and it should not rest heavily on the dampened pads. When done, wash the surface and wax.

Dear Dorothy: A friend said I should never start or turn off the vacuum cleaner when it is near the color TV set — that it upsets the color balance. Is this correct? — Holly Frey

Let's put it this way: It's a good idea not to do it. At one point a vacuum cleaner near color TV regularly unscrambled the color. Now all color sets are demagnetized ("degaussed" is the technical word). Even so, a vacuum cleaner can still temporarily affect the color so it's wise to follow the old precaution.

Dear Dorothy: Love to use sour cream in baked dishes, but it's annoying as the dickens to have it curdle or separate. Is there a way to stop this? — Louise Merck

Just don't boil it. Sour cream won't curdle in baking — or if simply heated. I'm a great pusher of sour cream dishes. Those who raise eyebrows should remember it's lower in calories than margarine or butter.

Plants can be safely moved

Plants can be moved safely even for long distances if they are properly prepared for the trip and handled with care, says the nation's sixth largest mover of household goods.

The first step: check with the local office of the U.S. Department of Agriculture about regulations for interstate movement. Some states forbid the growth of certain plants.

The mover, Atlas Van Lines of Evansville, Ind., recommends repotting in plastic three weeks before moving day anything that is in clay containers. Use the same size pot, as it is a temporary measure. Plants should be pruned closely for good packing.

Before packing, they should be watered normally during warm months, but only lightly during cold weather, to lessen the chance of freezing during transit, the mover said.

TO KEEP FROM carrying bugs and other plant pests to your new home, one week before moving day place the plants in a black plastic utility bag for about six hours with a bug-pest strip or a conventional flea collar and set the plants in a cool, shady area.

The mover recommends conventional dish packing cartons for the trip, the kind that come with separators for the contents. Use damp newspaper or packing paper to wrap the base of each pot and protect the plants' leaves and limbs. Include a layer of damp paper on top. Anchor the pots in boxes, punch airholes in them and fasten lids loosely.

The boxes should be stored upright in a cool spot no longer than overnight, and should be carried inside your car, not in the trunk where excess heat could kill them.

THE MOVER estimates that plants will travel safely for up to four days if they are packed with care, and if you choose your parking places en route to keep the car in the shade in summer and in sunny spots in winter. A car window should be left oepn in summer to prevent them from wilting.

In your new home, plants should be removed through the bottom of their boxes to avoid damage to branches and leaves.

Business crime crackdown gets more arrests

A stepped-up Federal Bureau of Investigation effort against white collar crime during 1976 has led to a record number of convictions, FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley has announced.

Kelley said among the prosecutions have been a number involving industrial espionage in Illinois, land frauds in Arizona and forged and stolen securities in Missouri.

More than 4,600 convictions came during fiscal 1976, a record total and some 856 more than 1975, Kelley said.

White collar crime and fraud in government housing projects have come under intensified FBI investigation. Task forces have concentrated their efforts in 28 major metropolitan areas and more than 800 individuals have been indicted, Kelley said.

Kelley said agents in Chicago and Milwaukee investigated industrial espionage in which stolen secrets of a chemical company, valued in excess of $16 million, were recovered. A former official of the company was convicted and evidence was developed that he had secret numbered bank accounts in Switzerland and on Grand Cayman Island.

FBI investigations of white collar crimes during fiscal 1976 resulted in fines and recoveries totaling $206 million, an increase of $11 million over 1975.

Ask Andy

Tomato worms become pretty moths

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Steven Geltmaker, 9, of Trivoli, Ill., for his question:

HOW DO TOMATO WORMS TRAVEL?

Caterpillars are wormlike creatures that eventually become moths or butterflies. And though our tomato-munching freeloader is called a tomato worm, or more properly a tomato hornworm, he is not a worm at all, he is a caterpillar. When he grows up he forsakes tomatoes and daintily sips nectar for his remaining days.

True enough, the tomato hornworm appears in our gardens almost overnight, as if by magic. One day we have a beautiful cluster of plants and the next day we find leaves stripped and tiny tomatoes almost devoured. But we know that no magic wand delivered the scavenger — he was there all the time and we just didn't notice him. His mother took great care to lay her eggs on just the right type of plant so that when they hatched, the proper food would be available.

Like most caterpillars, the tomato hornworm gets from here to there by walking. His body is made up of 12 or 13 rings, or segments. The first three segments in back of the head are called thoracic segments, and each of these has a pair of honest-to-gosh legs. These will later develop into the legs of the adult insect. The other segments are called abdominal segments, and generally five of these have a pair of leg-like structures called prolegs. These are not true legs and will disappear before he becomes an adult.

Each thoracic leg ends in a tiny sharp claw, just the right sort of tool for climbing. Each abdominal proleg bears a number of structures called crochets (pronounced croshays) that look like miniature hooks. With his claws and crochets, the caterpillar is wonderfully suited for climbing — with no lessons either, thank you. As he finishes a leaf here, he climbs over to a leaf there and begins munching anew.

When tomato hornworms become adult insects, they are known as sphinx, or hawk, moths — and beautiful creatures they are. In flight, they remind us of hummingbirds and are sometimes called hummingbird moths. Their offspring, however, are ravenous creatures that eat and grow at an incredible rate. Once they invade your garden, the only solution is to pick them off and settle accounts with them as quickly as possible.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Wendy Bogan, 16, of Charlotte, N.C., for her question:

HOW DO SEEDLESS GRAPES REPRODUCE?

New grape vines, regardless of the variety, get their start in life as tiny cuttings from the parent plant or as grafts. Twig cuttings like to be potted in a warm, moist bit of sand to start their roots. When spring arrives, they are ready to be permanently planted. Root cuttings are taken from the base of the vine with a section of root attached. These adapt easily to the ground in the spring and in no time are sending out sturdy, climbing stems.

Sometimes a few twigs from a seedless grape vine will be grafted to a well-rooted vine, which may or may not be a seedless variety. In this case, the stem or trunk of the mature vine is cut off fairly close to the ground. The twigs are sliced and placed, just so, against the cut vine and sealed into place. When the grafted twigs grow, their boughs will produce seedless grapes.

British ace is shot down

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Here is a hand reported by Boris Schapiro in "Bridge Analysis." South was one of Britain's very best players.

Great expert that he was, he managed to go down at six spades. East ruffed dummy's ace of hearts at trick one and led back a diamond which was allowed to run to dummy's jack. The ace of clubs was cashed and South came to his hand with a trump to ruff a club. Back to his hand with a second trump to ruff his last losing club. This left him in dummy. He had to lead a diamond in order to finesse his queen and West trumped to beat the slam.

It was tough luck indeed. East got to ruff with his singleton trump and West could ruff the second damond, but as Boris points out there was a foolproof line of play.

At trick three he should ruff a heart in his own hand. Back to dummy with the ace of clubs to ruff another heart. A trump lead to dummy followed by a third heart ruff.

Then his last trump to dummy to discard his two low clubs on what would have become dummy's long trumps. Finally, a finesse of the diamond queen and the last two tricks to the king of clubs and ace of diamonds.

A California reader wants to know what a dummy reversal is.

The question is answered in the article above. The winning line of play should use declarer's own trumps to ruff and to leave dummy with long trumps on which to discard his own losers.

Boy in bubble film lacks sensitivity

NEW YORK (UPI) — There are infants born every year incapable of developing immunity to germs — babies for whom the common cold could be fatal, for whom their mother's kiss would be the kiss of death.

That's the subject ABC chose to tackle in "The Boy In The Plastic Bubble," a fictional drama about such a child who grows into adolescense surrounded by plastic walls and sterile air flow, who has never known the direct and warm touch of another human being.

The show, which will be broadcast at 8 p.m. today, starts as a tearful tale, a possible four-handkerchief special, but ends in a souped up case of adolescent rebellion, which begs the starkness of the tragedy involved.

JOHN TRAVOLTA, Barbarino in in "Welcome Back, Kotter," plays the afflicted boy, Tod Lubitch. Robert Reed is cast as his father, Diana Howland his mother, Ralph Bellamy his doctor, and Glynnis O'Connor plays the shallow little minx next door, whom Tod has grown to love through binoculars over the years.

The child — it would be wrong to call him sick since becquse of his protected environment he has never known an illness, not even sniffles — comes across appealingly as a toddler, but increasingly less so as an adolescent.

Why should he be a wonderful person? He has had no friends except adults, no life beyond the artificial environment of his home. Yet he remains able to try new things, even a spacesuit-like outfit so that he can attend high school and graduate with his peers.

Where does he go fom there? That would be telling. "Plastic Bubble" certainly is no bore, but it lacks sensitivity in its look at the boy and, more so, at his parents.

ON HER WAY to an assist is Conant's Bev Bidlo against Chicago Latin in girls state field hockey play. Bidlo set up Elaine Weston's first of three goals as the Cougars romped to a 4-0 win. They open state finals play today at New Trier East High School in Winnekta.

Field hockey state tourney begins today

by PAUL LOGAN

Seldom does a team receive a second chance to gain some revenge. Conant will have such a golden opportunity this afternoon.

The Cougars of Coach Karen Betts have a debt to repay. They lost to Barrington in September, 3-0. In most games that's a close score, but not in field hockey.

And so Conant and Barrington will meet again on a neutral field. Not just any field but center stage in the quarterfinal round of the state championships at New Trier East High School in Winnetka.

"OUR TEAM IS really looking forward to Friday," said Betts earlier this week. She will send her team into its first state finalist game ever at 2:30 p.m. "They're really up for it, particularly because of the beating by Barrington."

The Cougars have been almost impossible to beat since some early season losses. They own a 10-4 record compared to the Barrington Fillies' 16-3 mark. This time the Fillies will be looking at a different Conant team.

"We'll have three players on the field now that weren't playing against them (Fillies)," said Betts ,referring to Claudia and Danni Kuzyk and Bev Bidlo. "Also, at the beginning of the season we were not at our best. Since then we've jelled as a team, so I think we have a better chance."

Carol Swanson, Barrington's coach, agreed. However, she rated her team as "the best team I've ever had in terms of attitude. Some of the girls have some super skills."

THE FILLIES have scored 42 goals (2.3 per game) compared to giving up just 14 (0.7 per game). Swanson heaped praise on her sophomore goalie, Carrie Prewitt, who has played every game. Only Maine East, Highland Park and Schaumburg have managed victories against Prewitt & Co.

Three Barrington players do the bulk of the scoring — Cathy Butler, Margot Michalski and Jan Walstrom. Swanson's team captain is center-halfback Marilyn Minchk. If Conant is to win, it must keep this talented senior from taking charge.

Despite their strength, Schaumburg outplayed the Fillies in the sectional finals, according to Betts. "I thought Schaumburg deserved to win the (1-0) game. They dominated the entire second half. But in hockey, a goal's a goal. And the weather was extremely cold that day.

"Barrington definitely looks good, they're tough and they don't give up. A lot of the girls on Barrington's team have had tournament experience (outside field hockey), so that's a definite asset for them. But my kids are ready to meet them."

DENISE DOERING and Kathy Surnicki are Conant's leading scorers with 12 and nine goals, respectively. They key an offense that's scored 36 goals (2.6 per game).

Playing solid defense in Conant's three shutout tourney wins (1-0 over Oak Park, 4-0 over Chicago Latin and 2-0 over Chicago University) were three girls in particular — Claudia Kuzyk, Joan Suerth and Laura Amrhein. On the season, the Cougars have allowed just 12 goals (0.8).

"The kids have been surging," said Betts, who has seen her team shut out eight of its last nine opponents. "I don't think they have peaked yet.

"They're (Fillies) an aggressive team. We know our defense has to be twice as good and our offense twice as determined to score."

Baseball mess hits sports card business

Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

Al Fitzmorris is confused, and he's not alone.

Fitzmorris was a pitcher with the Kansas City Royals at breakfast last Friday morning.

He was a pitcher with the Toronto Blue Jays at lunch.

He was a pitcher with the Cleveland Indians at dinner.

"I'm going to wait until the weekend is over to comment," Fitzmorris said. "I want to find out who I am really going to be with. Being with three different clubs on the same day is more than I can handle."

FITZMORRIS was caught up in the expansion draft that stocked the new Toronto and Seattle franchises of the American League, and his was just another bizarre story in the crazy, mixed-up world of professional baseball.

The week that was in major league baseball saw players selected by as many as 13 different teams in a free agent draft. The following day Toronto and Seattle just added to the confusion with the expansion draft.

The baseball establishment was rocking. Tremors could be felt everywhere, but they really shook a six-story building in Brooklyn that houses the executive and editorial offices of Topps Chewing Gum, Inc.

Topps is in the business of sports picture cards and novelties, and baseball occupies a major portion of their expanding market. They print close to 800 different baseball cards and package them with bubble gum for March deliveries. It's big business.

AN EXTRAORDINARY amount of labor goes into the baseball cards, and Topps sets the wheels in motion immediately after the World Series. Unfortunately, the free agent and expansion drafts have created some king-sized headaches.

Seymour (Sy) Berger is the man in the middle. He's the sports picture card director for Topps, and he needs to know what players will be with what teams before he can initiate final production.

"It's a big problem," he said this week from his office in Brooklyn. "We obviously want to have the players with their proper teams when we distribute the cards, but right now there are so many question marks. We can't wait much longer.

"Sure, I'd like to know what team Reggie Jackson, for example, will be with, but we can't wait. We'll just have to use him with his Baltimore uniform or maybe a picture without a hat on, also touching up the uniform. Then again, maybe he'll sign before our final deadline."

TOPPS WILL be able to make proper changes on the cards if the free agent players make their decision, or if trades are consummated by this weekend.

Most of the pictures have been taken at spring training or during the season. There are several to choose from.

Berger and his sports department at Topps attempt to predict the rosters for each major league team so they know where to start in preparing their cards. They have to prepare just so many players for each team.

"We're combination general managers and fortune tellers," Berger said. "We have to guess what an organization has on its mind. Will a manager want to carry three catchers? Who's good in the minors and likely to stick? What about trades?

"IT'S AN involved procedure. Do you know what team's roster is giving us a lot of trouble this year? The White Sox. Who can figure out what they'll do over the winter?"

After they decide who will be on the cards (every player selected will receive $250 and royalties if they stay on the roster for the first 31 days of the season), Topps settles on a format, changing the cards as much as possible each year because "basically we're in the children's entertainment business."

"I like to put a lot of body copy — interesting anecdotes, little sidelights from the different players," said Berger, "but what the kids love are statistics. So, of course, we give them what they want."

Berger remembers the early days, when he came to Topps in 1947 for a short promotion job and wound up as sales manager and then sports card director.

"WE HAD NOTHING when we started," he said. "Just an idea and a list of players' names. I used to write all the copy for the baseball cards myself, in my living room, at home on the weekends. It was murder.

"You don't know the agony of trying to think up something nice to say about some guy who hit .176 last year and made 25 errors. What can you say — 'This guy stinks'?"

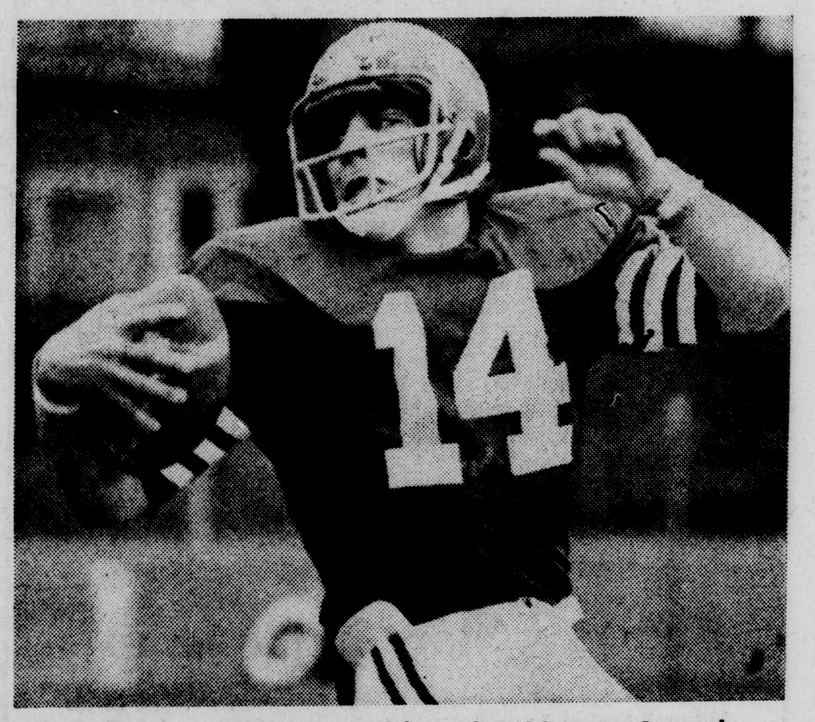
The cards go from the sports department to the ad department, and they eventually wind up in the main Topps printing plant in Duryea, Pa., where 1,000 people work, turning out bubble gum and sports cards and various novelty products.

Everything is geared for March deliveries, and that's why Berger is concerned with this baseball mess.

"WE'RE AS READY as we can be, just waiting," he said. "Sure, it's a problem, but this is the thing I love. There aren't too many guys who can say that about their job. I had to ask myself once, 'Do I really want to be the sports picture card director of a bubble gum company?' And the answer turned out to be yes."

Nothing really bothers this baseball card king. Baseball struggles along, but Sy Berger is happy.

"My friends are always coming up to me and saying, 'Sy, every kid in America envies your job.' I say — 'I've got news for you, Pal. I envy my job myself.' "



Rich Weiss — No. 1 problem for Hersey Saturday.

New Trier star

Weiss (No. 14) comes to town

by JIM COOK

Locating Rich Weiss after a football game is the easy part. It's during the action that putting a finger on the New Trier East quarterback becomes guesswork.

The challenge of containing the 6-foot-1, 196-pound cinch All-Stater now belongs to Hersey. Weiss eliminated St. Viator on Wednesday, 35-8. The Huskies and Indians will collide at 1:30 Saturday afternoon at Hersey in the quarterfinals of the state football playoffs.

Weiss sticks out like a dandelion in new sod in the post-game lockerroom. He's a magnet for college recruiters and reporters.

"OUR OFFENSIVE line played a great game," Weiss said with as much polish as a politician. "We thought we'd have to throw more against St. Viator, but our line really opened up the running game," he modestly gushed. "They were really aggressive."

Weiss had a good season Wednesday.

He ran for three touchdowns and passed for two others to inflate his season totals to 21 TD's, 11 rushing and 10 through the air.

In leading New Trier through a 9-1 season, Weiss has carried the ball 96 times for 758 yards (7.9 average) and hit 51 of 94 passes for 851 yards. He also is punting at a rate of better than 40 yards per kick.

He does not play in the band at halftime.

"HE'S JUST a super player, better than we expected," Viator's Jim Lyne said. "He's the kind of player a state champion must have, someone that can take charge of a game."

Weiss broke Viator's back by turning the ball upfield on the option, sneak and draw. He has 4.8 speed in the 40 and executes as if he's been redshirted for two years.

In New Trier's only loss of the season, a 20-15 non-conference decision against Holy Cross, Weiss completed 14 of 18 passes for 97 yards. "We had just beaten (defending state champ) Deerfield and had (arch-rival) Evanston coming up, so we could have been down a little bit," Weiss explained.

New Trier shouldn't be down Saturday at Hersey, though, and Weiss will be in motion again.

He's hard to find on the football field, but if it helps, he's No. 14.

Bill Veeck

Bob McAdoo

Nuggets' streak ends

Bob McAdoo and Ernie DiGregorio hit key baskets in the final period to offset David Thompson's 36-point spree Thursday night as the hosting Buffalo Braves registered a 105-94 victory over the previously unbeaten Denver Nuggets. They still have the best NBA record at 8-1.

McAdoo, collecting a team-high 22 points and grabbing 25 rebounds, tallied eight in the closing quarter and DiGregorio netted six of his 17 points to neutralize Thompson's 12-point effort. DiGregorio hit two free throws in the last 1:35 as Denver coach Larry Brown drew two technicals and was automatically ejected with 1:14 remaining in the game.

Elsewhere in the NBA, John Drew's off-balance, 24-foot jump shot with three seconds left propelled the Atlanta Hawks to a 107-105 victory over the visiting Portland Trailblazers.

THE TRAILBLAZERS brought the ball into play at midcourt for a last-ditch effort to tie it but Joe Meriweather blocked Lionel Hollins' shot at the buzzer.

Lou Hudson led Atlanta with 33 points and Drew added 25. Bill Walton led Portland with 28.

Forwards George Gervin and Larry Kenon combined for 59 points as the hosting San Antonio Spurs defeated the New York Nets 108-104.

Gervin scored 30 points and stole the ball five times while Kenon canned 29 points, grabbed 10 rebounds and made four thefts.

The Phoenix Suns scored 11 straight points in the closing minutes of the first quarter to break open a close game and went on to record a 108-98 victory over the visiting Indiana Pacers.

Veeck to undergo surgery

Chicago White Sox President Bill Veeck will undergo corrective surgery next Thursday at Illinois Masonic Hospital for back and neck problems, his office announced Thursday.

A team of three neurosurgeons, headed by Dr. Oscar Sugar, will perform the operation "on the cervical spine to release pressure and stabilize the neck."

The announcement said the physicians expect Veeck will have a full recovery without nerve or muscular impairment.

His office said Veeck has been hospitalized with the flu, which aggravated a longstanding problem with his cervical spine.

"During his hospitalization Bill has been actively engaged with the operation of the White Sox," the announcement said.

He was assisted by Roland Hemond in the reentry and free agent draft and "he is also actively engaged in the attempt to sign free agents and to finalize negotiations on a 1977 White Sox manager."

Islanders tie Bruins, 2-2

J. P. Parise's rising slap shot early in the third period lifted the New York Islanders into a 2-2 tie with the hosting Boston Bruins Thursday night in a battle of division leaders.

The tie extended the Islanders' unbeaten streak to seven games and Boston's unbeaten skein to four. The tie was the first for Boston this year and the first blemish on its home record. The Bruins had won all six of their previous home games this year.

Middleton suffered a strained muscle in his left shoulder last night.

In the only other NHL game, Bill Barber and Bob Kelly scored goals in a 1:09 span of the second period to break a 3-3 tie and send the Philadelphia Flyers off to a 6-4 victory over the Vancouver Canucks.

Barber broke the deadlock at 4:07 of the second period on a power-play goal, his sixth of the season. Kelly then came back with his sixth goal, shoving a rebound into an empty net as goalie Curt Ridley had one behind the case to recover a loose puck.

Rangers, Stars make swap

NEW YORK — The slumping New York Rangers, last in the National Hockey League's Patrick Division, engineered a three-player swap with the equally disappointing Minnesota North Stars Thursday which involved veteran right wingers Bill Goldsworthy and Bill Fairbairn.

The Rangers, embarrassed at home 7-5 by the three-year-old Washington Capitals Wednesday night, sent Fairbairn and defenseman Nick Beverley to Minnesota in exchange for the 32-year-old Goldsworthy, who has averaged 30 goals over the past five seasons.

Although their biggest need is for defensemen, the Rangers, losers of five straight games and six of eight at home, obviously felt a deal of any sort was needed to shake up the team.

Cowens' dad isn't worried

COLD SPRING, Ky. — Dave Cowens' father said Thursday his son's surprise leave-of-absence from the Boston Celtics is "open-ended," but added, "I feel sure he will go back to the Celtics."

"Dave called me last night and said he would be home in four or five days," said Jack Cowens. "I expect him this weekend or by the first of next week, and we'll sit down and chat.

"I don't think it's team related, and I don't think it was any spur of the moment thing. He's not that way. I feel it's just something he has thought about for a long time and he wanted to have a little time away from the game."

Dave, 28, a 6-foot-9 center and seven year pro basketball veteran, was granted a leave of absence Wednesday by Celtics' General Manager Red Auerbach.

Evert leads U.S. net team

LONDON — Chris Evert defeated a stubborn Virginia Wade 6-2, 3-6, 6-3, but Rosie Casals fell to Sue Barker 1-6, 6-3, 6-2 Thursday to put the United States and Britain level 1-1 after the opening singles of the Wightman Tennis Cup.

Evert gave the U. S. a valuable lead with her win over the British No. 1, who had beaten her just five days earlier. But Casals, despite a fine start in which she allowed her opponent only eight points in the opening set, fell away badly to let Barker tie it up for Britain, which has won the cup for the past two years.

Evert, the U. S. Open and Wimbledon champion, had to fight harder than she had for a long time to beat Wade. "It's my biggest thrill since Wimbledon," said Evert. "It was a really tough match. I didn't think I'd win it until the last point," she said.

That Oxford look

Haden not in NFL mold

Jim Murray

Pro football is famous for delving into far-out corners of higher and lower education for its players. Scouts got Harlon Hill out of Alabama's Florence State Techers College. They regularly comb the student rolls of Prairie View, Tex., New Mexico Highlands and Texas School of Mines for 4-second halfbacks or split ends.

But no one ever thought of getting a quarterback where the Rams got Patrick C. Haden, Esq., this year. You get quarterbacks out of Notre Dame or Louisiana Tech or the Big 8, not 50 miles northwest of London.

What you're suppostd to get out of Oxford University are Chancellors of the Exchequer, First Lords of the Admiralty, or, in a pinch, first-rate butlers.

WHAT AN Oxford don is doing on the 10-yard line of the Chicago Bears — without a pith helmet and a native bearer — is something for him to explain. Oxonians are supposed to wear tweed packets with elbow patches and Bond Street brogans, not cleats and funny-looking helmets with horns on them. How can you play football in a monocle?

When the seasoned veterans of the Rams — all from places with fight songs, card tricks, pompon girls, and a dormitory for football players only — had their rookie quarterback stand on a chair and sing his school's fight song in fall practice this year, Pat Haden had to tell them Oxford has none of these. And the Sorbonne doesn't have card tricks. And Old Heidelberg's scars come from sabers, not linebackers. When they study a "blitz," they mean German armor, not free safeties. And Eton doesn't have bonfire rallies.

Oxford probably thinks a "Los Angeles Ram" is a freeway pileup. They were bemused to find that Pat Haden made enough money playing a game on Sunday so he didn't have to work the rest of that week. Explaining the Rose Bowl to people who think it's probably a poem by Swinburne is not even a finite undertaking. "Punting" is something you do on the Thames with a pole, not on fourth down. They'll wonder how a tight end can see the ball.

ON THE SAME score, how can an Oxonian explain the moral philosophers to a crashing linebacker? Can Descartes teach you what to do on third-and-goal? Does Kant's Pure Reason work against George Allen? Not even Disraeli could make the right decision if he only had 3.5 seconds. And the Chicago Bears bearing down on him.

Only one other Rhodes Scholar ever achieved stardom in the National Football League. Cecil Rhodes' idea of a scholar-athlete was probably a popo player. "Whizzer" White went on the U.S. Supreme Court, a body of men not ordinarily associated with the word "Whizzer." Pat Haden aspires to the law, too, and is studying the utilitarian philosophers, British political history since 1865, and economics.

Not surprisingly with a quarterback from Oxford, a major occupational hazard is concussion. Many NFL players are not that vulnerable in that area. There's not that much to concuss. They wear their helmets mainly for looks. It's their knees and legs they worry about. You never see their heads in a splint or their brains taped.

No one has figured out a brace for the cerebellum. When ligaments are torn there, no prosthesis works.

THE THING ABOUT Pat Haden is, he LOOKS as if he came direct from Oxford. Just as Terry Bradshaw looks as if he came from Louisiana Tech. It's not that he's frail. He doesn't get arm injuries or even ankle injuries. Better he should. Pat gets injured up there where he keeps Disraeli's stand on Suez and the Boer War dates. Pat is just small. Most NFL quarterbacks have 3 to 4 inches on him but, more importantly, they have 30 pounds on him. Pat gives a big pull in the weights to the lineman in every collision. Even the coaches get a headache when Pat gets hit because he is probably as good a natural quarterback as there is in the game.

Pat feels the condition is eminently correctable. He is a victim of his own scholastic aptitude. His excuse is interesting, that throughout-the-ages whipping boy, the British diet. It was all those boiled potatoes and greasy mutton and pickles. And those 16th Century halls. If he weren't a Rhodes Scholar, he'd be first string.

"The English food is not the best. I lost some weight. And the opportunities for keeping in condition were not the same. Oxford has plenty of libraries but no weightlifting rooms. I had central heating and modern quarters but in lots of places the guys woke up and could see their breaths and wore scarves to bed. Don't get me wrong, the English are a tough people."

But, of course, they don't have the dietary advantages of even an NFL rookie, with probably seven years of training-table steaks and eggs behind him. They don't grow up to be Carl Eller or Joe Greene or Larry Csonka.

HADEN BELIEVES he's only a few New York cuts and bench presses from becoming the first guy to go from Oxford to the Super Bowl. Then it's back to the boiled haddock and cucumbers. He plans to return to Oxford in mid-term. He misses the art of conversation practiced there. "Over here, we're in too much of a rush to talk to each other." In other words, he wants to get some place where he can have more of a dialogue with his fellow man than "How you like that, Chump?"

WORTHWHILE PROGRAM

Dear Sirs:

At a time when all we seem to hear about our youngsters is how difficult they are to handle and that they are unruly and have no respect for authority, etc., please allow me an observation.

Last Tuesday night I stopped by the Ice Spectrum. A Squirt game was in progress. These are nine and ten year olds. It was a most exciting game with good defensive play as well as great scoring plays. As the game drew to a close, I realized the entire control of the game rested with teenagers. The coaches were Mike Loden of the Burger King team and Greg Byrnes of the Marmax Glass team. The timekeepers were John Mickelson and Eddie Price and the referees were Jay Bleecker and Andy McElman.

The results of the game are not germane to (this letter). The conduct of the game could not have been more professional. There was even a critical decision involving a penalty shot. The manner in which these young men handled themselves was an extraordinary example to their young players.

We may not be developing any Bobby Orrs but it is apparent to this observer that we sure are developing responsible young men.

To all the adults, parents, coaches, referees, timekeeprs and board members — you can be justifiably proud of what is being accomplished in the Palatine Youth Hockey program. It is all worthwhile.

BAD-BREAK BEARS

Fans forum:

This football season will be remembered for years as the Year of the Bad Break for the Chicago Bears. From the first Viking game when it was obvious the Bears had made a first down on their last drive (but didn't get credit for it), to the Raider game when a TD was called back by a quick whistle, it has been a nightmare season. And it's still got a long way to go.

For myself and the Mount Prospect Midget Football League I would like to thank you very much for the time and cooperation Paddock Publications has given us and we certainly look forward to continuing our good relations with you in 1977. The job you have in meeting the demands of your paper and trying to make us happy is a hell of an objective to accomplish. I applaud your intestinal fortitude.

GOING DOWN. Elk Grove's Shawn Murphy (22), his injured hand heavily wrapped in tape, still manages to hold onto the football as he's tackled by a pair of Elgin defenders Wednesday. The Grenadiers beat Elgin 20-12, and will meet Belleville West at Elk Grove Saturday in round two of the state high school playoffs. (Photo by Dave Tonge).

Sorry, Paul

In Thursday's Mid-Suburban All-Conference football list, Prospect's Paul Izban was referred to as Phil. We are sorry for this unfortunate error.

Izban, a junior, had a fine season for the Prospect Knights at his linebacker position. He was one of only six juniors selected to this 66-player team.

Wyoming safety idolized brother Fred Steinmark

by J. PHILLIP MAGERS

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI) — Wyoming weak safety Sammy Steinmark did not have to look far for the inspiration in his life and football career. It was as close as his brother.

Steinmark's brother was Fred Steinmark, a University of Texas football legend who died June 6, 1971 from cancer. Sammy Steinmark said he idolized his brother and they shared many things, including faith.

"Freddie had a super strong belief in God," Steinmark said. "He was small, and I'm kind of small. If you have a faith in your religion, that helps you through. Freddie always said without his faith, his family his friends, he could not have made it."

FREDDIE WAS 5-foot-10, 165 pounds, and his brother is identical in size. At Wyoming, he's playing the same position his brother did at Texas in the Longhorn's famous 15-14 win over Arkansas for the 1969 national championship.

Seven days after the game Steinmark's cancerous left leg was amputated and he died two years later at a Houston hospital. Fred Akers, now the Wyoming head coach, was an assistant at Texas at the time.

After Steinmark's death, Texas coach Darrel Royal said, "How could I be prejudiced against recruiting someone as small as Fred. I just weighed 158 pounds when I started out at Oklahoma. I suspicioned he had 150 pounds of heart. My suspicions were correct."

It was no coincidence that Steinmark came to Wyoming a year ago, transferring from Texas at the same time Akers took over the Cowboy's ailing football program. From a 2-9 season a year ago, Akers' team this year won five of its first six games and led the Western Athletic Conference.

"FREDDIE AHD A lot to do with my transfer," Steinmark said. "I just kind of thought I had to go some place on my own. I knew if I could make it there (Texas), I could make it somewhere else."

Steinmark is glad he came to Wyoming, especially for this year. There's also no doubt he has great respect for Akers, who he says will someday be talked about like Vince Lombardi and Don Shula.

Most of his play in high school and as a freshman at Texas was at wide receiver, but when he started playing at Laramie, Akers made Steinmark a weak safety. The wiry, talkative player likes the position.

"Sammy needs more experience," said Akers. "He's a very intense young man. The game means a great deal to him. He has the same enthusiasm and quickness of his brother. He's a real pepper pot."

Junior grid playoffs set at Cary Grove

When the northern Illinois area junior football championships are played this Sunday, the Northwest area will be well represented at the championship games. Both the Bills junior football teams will play in the lightweight and heavyweight league titles at Cary Grove High School.

The lightweight game kickoff will be at 12:30 p.m. as the Bills (9-0-0) battle the Cary Grove Trojans (8-1-0). The Bills have recorded seven shutouts and have given up just 12 points in nine games. Back Jeff Albrecht leads the team offensive unit with nine touchdowns. Lightweight football is for boys 110 pounds and under.

At the heavyweight level, it will be the Bills boys football team meeting the Cary Grove Trojans at 2:15 p.m. at Cary Grove High School. Both teams met earlier with the Bills the winner 19-12 in overtime.

Admission to Sunday's championships is 50 cents for adults. Children 12 and under are free. Cary Grove High School is located in Cary, one-half mile north of Rt. 14 on First Ave.

Merritt Award to Bill Anderson

Billy Anderson, 13, of 1134 Harvard Lane, Buffalo Grove, has been named recipient of the 1976 Gregg S. Merritt Award for exhibiting "outstanding skill and sportsmanship" as a player on this year's Buffalo Grove Traveling All-Star baseball team.

The award, sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Jaycees, consists of a large, inscribed trophy and a plaque emblazoned with Billy's name, which will hang permanently in the Buffalo Grove Village Hall. The annual award program was instituted in 1965 in memory of the son of a former Jaycee member to "preserve and enhance the ideal of sportsmanship and chievement in Little League Baseball."

by KEITH REINHARD

Realistic.

That's a good word to describe Rich Wetendorf, a Des Plaines football product playing at one of those obscure positions that seldom receive any notoriety.

Rich Wetendorf

Rich goes to Purdue. Yep . . . that's the team that absolutely stunned the world last Saturday by upsetting top-ranked Michigan, 16-14.

AND WETENDORF, starting at center for only the third time this season, was one of the stars. Praise for his performance against the Wolverines came from coaches, teammates and fans alike.

Perhaps the finest tribute came from a Chicago sportswriter in attendance at the West Lafayette showdown. He termed Rich's performance most memorable and most marvelous, adding that in the long history of the game some centers have surely played as well but none have ever played better.

Contacted several days after the big shocker, the former Maine West standout was far from floating on cloud nine: "It was quite a game, quite a sensation. But it will lose a lot of its meaning if we don't win our last two games."

Wetendorf shares the concern of his fellow Boilermakers over a third place Big Ten windup still very much within reach. "Beating Michigan was a great accomplishment for our team but we can't just coast now. Being prepared for Iowa is the most important thing at the moment."

JUST AS RICH isn't banking on one game to make a season for his team, he isn't figuring one individual performance will bring the pro scouts banging on his door. However, his 240 pound playing weight and new found credentials that are obviously what the NFL is seeking.

"It's hard to predict what will happen but I'm sure not looking that far ahead," he explained. "Getting a degree is pretty important to me so my plans are definitely to be back at school again next year."

Wetendorf in fact checked out job markets in his particular major — marketing — and recently began concentrating in RHI (Restaurant Hotel Institution) management instead, feeling this area had better employment potential.

The 6-2 former Warrior all-star makes no qualms about his position either. "I played linebacker in high school but they told me before I came down here that I would be playing center. It's not as glamorous a position but it's safer. College football requires a lot more speed too, than in high school. I'm comfortable at center."

RICH, WHO ALSO played baseball and hockey during his prep years, did not exactly follow in his father's footsteps. His dad, who also attended Maine, was a wrestler. The younger Wettendorf does credit his folks for his success to date on the grid iron. "Playing football has been a decision my parents let me make for myself but they've always offered encouragement."

His parents weren't in the stands for the big game, however. Sisters Linda Kreoger and Luanne Beumer were there to cheer him on but the folks were back home in Des Plaines . . . babysitting for their grandchildren.

Scholz 'retires' from grid post

by ART MUGALIAN

It was at the Schaumburg athletic banquet Wednesday night that Gary Scholz announced his "retirement" from the active ranks of football coaches, but most everyone already knew that Scholz was getting out.

They were hoping he would change his mind.

When it was obvious that his decision was firm — and after he had received a flood of plaques and mementoes—the silver-haired freshman-A coach turned emotional.

"I don't think I'm able to say all the things I'd like to say," Scholz rasped, a lump forming in his throat. "But I think you know how I feel."

SCHAUMBURG'S SCHOOL cafeteria was packed with parents and teachers and rowdy students, and up until this moment the noise level was enough to drown out an opera singer.

But Coach Scholz, speaking barely above a whisper, didn't have to ask for attention.

He may be a freshman coach but his class is varsity all the way.

"I've been coaching football for 20 years and I've enjoyed every minute of it," said the tall, tanned physical education teacher. "And I'd go another 20."

It was evident from the reaction in the room that it would be okay with everybody present if Scholz started on his next 20 years immediately.

But that won't be the case.

"COACH SCHOLZ will be leaving us for about three years, I figure," explained head coach Bob Ferguson from the podium. "Until his son graduates from college.

"We're gonna miss him," said Ferguson, measuring his words and trying not to let his upper lip quiver.

Scholz was head coach at Elmwood park for nine years before he came to Schaumburg as an assistant seven years ago. He helped put two sons through the grid program at Schaumburg, including 19-year-old Scott who is currently at the University of Illinois on a football scholarship.

Gary Scholz

The coach wants more time to see his son play ball.

"My wife says I've done so much for other people's kids, I should do something for my own boy," Scholz said.

BUT SCHOLZ ADMITTED that he may find it hard to be away from the game he loves.

"I'll be able to tell more next fall," he said. "Being away from it during the season may be too much."

It's likely that Schaumburg's football program will miss Scholz more than Scholz will miss football.

Parents, players and coaches looked on him as more than a lower-level coach. He was an elder statesman, a father, a titan who had been to the mountain and had seen victory and defeat from all angles.

His counsel was always sought, his advice nearly always heeded.

"WE ALWAYS PUT our best coach on the freshman level," Ferguson told the hushed audience. "That's where you make or break a program."

"He's a true fundamentalist," said Ferguson later. "And he gets the kids thinking about winning. On that level he's putting them all together as a family. He's getting them ready — not just physically, but mentally — to come up to the varsity.

"That's where it all starts, on the freshman level," Ferguson added.

"And he's loyal," the coach pointed out. "There's no better man than him."

FERGUSON MAY HOLD out hope that Scholz will return in three years, and Scholz himself may secretly relish the idea of someday getting back into the game. But until then the Schaumburg football program will have to get along without him.

And that won't be easy.

Plum Grove Bank 4, Canadian Pacific Airlines 1

Kurt Sprinkle, goalie for Plum Grove Bank kept Canadian Pacific Flyers grounded. The Purple Gang took it to the Airmen. The first period ended scoreless with Sprinkle and CP's Chris Costanzo stopping every shot. But early in the second period McBride's Bankers slipped one past the Flyer's goalie. Jim Pastika got it with an assist from Lee Wandling. A few minutes later Tom Gorski of the Bankers made it two zip with an assist from Jim P. The solo goal was on a solo play by Dan Trocke. Henkels felt so good about his first goal he did it again on passes from Ken Schora and Dave Capello. Joe Condon, Goalie for R K Construction deserved a better fate but with just a minute left in the game, Jerry Olles put one in for the Jaycees with Brian Riestke assisting.

Game 1 — DeKalb (8-3) vs. Woodstock (9-2) at 9 a.m., Game 2 — Edwardsville (6-5) vs. Galesburg (4-3) at 10:30 a.m and Game 3 — Farmer City-Mansfield (10-1-1) vs. New Trier West (10-1) at 1 p.m.

Saturday's semifinal games will have the winner of Game 1 vs. the winner of Game 2 at 9 a.m. and the winner of Game 3 vs. the winner of Game 4 at 10:30 a.m. The championship game will get under way at 2:30 p.m.

Route to Winnetka field hockey finals

Hoffman Estates fans who plan to back the Conant Cougars at the state girls field hockey championships can follow this route to Winnetka's New Trier East High School — the tourney site:

Go east on Willow (Palatine) Road to Green Bay Road in Winnetka. Turn right on Green Bay and go to the second stoplight. Turn left on Winnetka Avenue. This will take you to the high school. Drive past the high school. The field is located just on the other side of the building.

Schaumburg grad on field hockey star squad

Carla Seltzer, 18, freshman on The University of Iowa women's field hockey team and graduate of Schaumburg High School, has been selected to the state of Iowa all-star field hockey first team.

Seltzer was selected recently by a team of judges at the state field hockey tournament to play the left inner position, which she played for this year's state champion Iowa squad.

She will travel with the state's first and second all-star teams to a regional tournament today and Saturday in Macomb, Ill., where she will vie for a spot on the Midwest all-star field hockey team.

Seltzer was one of nine U of I players selected for berths on the two state all-star teams. Twenty-two players and two alternates were selected overall.

Seltzer is on an athletic scholarship at Iowa. This year she led the Hawkeye field hockey team in scoring during the regular season and in the state tournament.

Seltzer was picked by a team of judges for her play in the state field hockey tournament — where she scored three goals — to represent the state at the Midwest regionals. In field hockey, individual players — rather than entire teams — are selected to all-star teams to represent a state or region in advanced tournament competition.

Players picked at the Midwest tournament will move on to national competition Nov. 24-28 in Philadelphia.

The Hawkeyes won this year's state tournament by downing 1975 champion Northern Iowa 2-1 in the finals. Seltzer had both goals in that contest.

Head selector for the tournament, Donna Meck, said that "it was patently obvious" who should be named to the first team left inner position. She noted Seltzer's aggressiveness and "good positioning" during the tournament.

Iowa field hockey coach Margie Greenberg said, "Carla has improved tremendously during the season and I think it is significant that she is only a freshman."

Greenberg will coach the state's second team at the Macomb tournament.

TWICE IN HIS football career, Mark Speckman of Azusa Pacific College has been called for holding. On both occasions, he says the officials made mistakes. Speckman has no hands — he was born that way — but he is captain of Azusa Pacific's defensive unit.

'Something inside' aids handicapped college star

by JIM COUR

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Twice in his football career, Mark Speckman has been called for holding. On both occasions, he says, the officials made mistakes.

"Don't get me wrong," he explains. "Every offensive lineman is guilty of holding occasionally. Sure, I've been guilty when I've been on offense. I just wasn't caught when I was guilty.

"There was this one time in high school. The defensive player was swinging at me and I was pushing him away. They called me for illegal use of the hands. I thought it was a terrible call."

SPECKMAN, a two-year starting linebacker at Azusa Pacific, was born 21 years ago in Belmont, Calif., without hands.

The doctors had no explanation for his parents.

But Speckman says the only thing he can't do in football is tie his shoes.

"I was lucky to be born this way," Speckman said. "I never got used to having hands, so I don't miss them. A lot of Vietnam veterans who are amputees are having problems adjusting.

"I'VE NEVER had any problems playing sports. My dad and my brothers were always very positive about it. It's just something that I didn't think twice about."

"For you and me," Azusa Pacific head coach Jerry Sconce said, "Mark is unigue because he has no hands and plays football. Well, I've never met as neat a guy as he is. He's a fine gentleman who's extremely well adjusted.

"I remember the first day Mark came to practice with us last season. He got dressed and sat on the steps. Well, the first kid went by kind of look at him and his shoes, and Mark said, 'How do you think I'm going to tie them?"

Speckman is deeply religious.

"I COULD ALWAYS relate pretty well with my peers," he said. "During high school, I did have a little trouble with the way I felt about myself. It was just a little social hangup. That's a pretty tough stage to go through anyway.

"Then I became a Christian. I accepted Jesus Christ into my heart, I realized that God had a plan for me."

A 6-foot, 195-pounder, Speckman began playing football in a Pop Warner program in Belmont when he was 11.

An accomplished trombone player, he moved from Northern to Southern California on a music and academic scholarship.

Engaged to Melanie Baugh, an Azusa Pacific junior, Speckman wants to become a high school teacher.

AFTER AZUSA'S last two games, his football career will be over. But not because of his hands.

"Sure, I'd like to play in the NFL," Speckman said, "but I'm just too small. Otherwise, I don't see any problems. In a lot of ways, having no hands has helped me in football.

"A lot of players just hand tackle especially in high school. I never could do that, of course. So I had to develop quicker feet so I could get in front of the guy I was going to tackle."

When he was 13 months old, doctors fitted him with hooks.

"The other kids used to kid me all the time," he recalled. "They'd call me things like Capt. Hook. You know how kids are. They can tease you pretty bad and they can be awfully cruel. In high school, other players have said things, too, but that didn't bother me and I don't remember what they said.

"PEOPLE STILL stare at me but I'm used to it now. When you go to hand somebody something, they always look a little shocked. But I guess I stare, too.

"I don't use the word handicap any more. There are a lot of people with better physical builds—bigger, stronger and faster — that are more handicapped than I am because of something inside of them."

Bulls must be picture of health

by ED SANSBURY

Rarely if ever has a one-man basketball team won a championship. Optimistic Bulls' fans now are learning that 7-2 center Artis Gilmore can't do it alone.

New Coach Ed Badger never was ready to leap on the bandwagon predicting a first-ever championship for the Bulls when the team signed Gilmore, the No. 1 refugee from the American Basketball Assn., and college basketball's player of the year, Scott May.

With a cautious outlook, Badger commented, "It'll take time to put this team together. But if we can make the playoffs, we could be tough with Gilmore and May."

IN LESS THAN A month, Badger's somewhat pessimistic attitude has been justified, partially because of injuries. May and Jack Marin have had mononucleosis and haven't played yet. Jerry Sloan hasn't returned from knee surgery. There's no continuity at guard or forward, and the Bulls have been losers.

It's been too much of one man, Gilmore, and the 7-2 center feels the pressure. "Thus far," he said, "there's been a lot of pressure on me. Basketball never has been a one-man game, but there's a lot of things I can do to control the game, and I realize now I'm going to have to do them.

"Even at full strength, a lot of what goes into winning is going to depend on me, and once we get our combination together and reach full strength, we should be a good basketball team.

"I've got to start moving my legs and my feet and get in the game a little more mentally. On offense, I've got to start scoring more, taking the shots in order to open up the offense for our other players. Mickey Johnson and Cliff Pondexter are very good shooters, but I've got to shoot myself.

"I'VE GOT TO TAKE the good shots and I might have to force some shots to open up the area for them to shoot. Thus far everybody has concentrated on me and cut my game down, so I've got to reorganize myself."

Gilmore, who said he has learned a lot from Badger after five years of ABA experience, added that the Bulls' game was similar to what he played at Kentucky, and he added Badger is coaching "not much a different style.

"We had a lot of patterns in Kentucky and used the fast break some and that's what Badger is giving us. I've got the freedom to work my own abilities, and I have a lot of respect for the coaching.

"I can't really comment on what the difference is between the NBA and the ABA because I haven't competed against all the tough centers in the NBA yet. Wait until I play against Dave Cowens and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Bob Lanier before I try to evaluate the difference. It's going to take two or three months to do that."

GILMORE BELIEVES that once May and Marin rejoin the team, it should change the Bulls drastically. "Marin shoots well from outside and May has the ability to do so many things well. Badger wants to get the pressure off me and when they get back, it should help. It should make us better because I won't have to do so much myself."

Thus far whatever success the Bulls have had came because of super performances by Gilmore, purchased in the ABA draft for $1 million and signed to a $200,000 per year contract. The payoff has to come on the final won-lost record and Gilmore thinks it could be good.

"I feel this team can be comparable to our 1975 Kentucky team when we won the ABA championship and challenged the NBA winner to a series. They wouldn't play us," he said.

Maybe if the Bulls reach his expectations, the rest of the NBA won't want to either.
